Foes Plan Last Ditch Fight On Reorganization

Administration Pressure Leaves Opposition Undaunted; Supporters Say Compromise Gained Enough Votes To Assure Victory Without More Changes.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Undaunted by heavy administration pressure and undismayed by the effect of concessions, house foes of the far-reaching reorganization bill stiffened their lines today for a last-ditch fight.

The issue, which has thrown the house into an almost unprecedented state of excitement and disorganization, may not be finally decided before the end of the week.

Fortified by President Roosevelt's return from Warm Springs and his assumption of command, Democratic leaders voiced confidence that they can break the stubborn bipartisan opposition to the measure.

Mr. Roosevelt, who called leaders to the White House soon after his return to the city, was said to be cheered by the optimistic report given him.

Leaders said they informed the president that the compromise amendments, announced after a telephone conference between leaders and Mr. Roosevelt, had gained votes and that the bill can be passed without agreeing to emasculating amendments.

Indicating concern as to what may happen to the bill if it is returned to the senate, the president called Vice President Garner and Senator Byrnes (D) of South Carolina to the conference.

Bill Pushed Aside.

House leaders conferring with him were Speaker Bankhead, Majority Leader Rayburn and Reps. Cochran (D) of Missouri, Vinson, (D) of Kentucky, Warren (D) of North Carolina, Mead (D) of New York and Robinson (D) of Utah, all members of the reorganization committee.

While house leaders shoved the RFC loan bill and other legislation to the forefront today, it was possible that debate would be resumed on the reorganization bill before night.

Mr. Roosevelt approved the conduct of Speaker Bankhead and Democratic Leader Rayburn in their efforts to pacify an unruly house. They promised Mr. Roosevelt that a reorganization bill will be passed.

Agreement was reached for exemption of the veterans' administration from the president's proposed reorganization powers. Leaders had already attempted to assure the house that Mr. Roosevelt

'IT'S A GRAB'

Hoover Says Reorganization Bill Aimed at More Power.

CHICAGO—(UP)—Former President Herbert Hoover turned a critical eye today on the administration's reorganization bill. Here for a brief visit before continuing home from his European tour, Hoover branded the legislation:

"A grab for more power by the president."

He took issue with claims made for the measure, saying:

"I notice attempts are being made by the administration to justify the bill on the grounds it is similar to reorganization proposals made by previous Republican administrations.

"The message on reorganization I sent to congress in 1932 dealt with the purely executive departments of the government. There was no attempt or suggestion to make any changes in the judicial or the civil service such as are contained in the administration's bill."

Acquaintance Sought in Murder Probe

SHERIFF SEEKS TO QUIZ MAN ABOUT QUARREL

Believes Slain WPA Worker and Suspect May Have Argued Over Money.

CALLS IN 50 KIN, FRIENDS

Partly Retraced Copy of Note Found In Cabinet Sent to FBI For Examination.

Investigation into the murder of Sherman Reed, 58, whose body was found five days ago in his three-room cabin on Seventh avenue, centered today in a search for an acquaintance of the slain man who may have quarreled with him over money matters.

Convinced that Reed's assailant was bent on revenge and may have held a grudge for months, Sheriff E. P. Long said he had questioned more than 50 relatives and friends of the victim over the week-end in an attempt to uncover a clue to the identity of the assailant. Reed was slain last Wednesday evening.

Seek to Connect Note, Slaying.

Meanwhile, a partly re-traced copy of a note found in the dead man's cabin had been sent today to the Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters in Washington for examination in the hope of connecting the clue with the slaying of the WPA worker and father of 10 children.

Copy of the note, which officers here were only partly successful in retracing from a scratch pad, is believed to include a reference to a debt owed Reed by an unknown person. The original note had been torn from the pad and apparently delivered. The tracings were made from indentations left by a pencil on the sheet under the one on which the note was written.

Sees Revenge as Only Motive.

"We can't see anything else but the revenge motive in the evidence so far," Sheriff Long said.

The statement of neighbors of Reed that he had lived in fear of an attack by an unknown assailant and that he had told them of being knocked unconscious by a blow over the head at his home last summer strengthened the grudge theory, Long added.

The sheriff also was told that Reed went to the home of a neighbor about three weeks ago to relate how he had been followed home by two men.

ROOSEVELT DIGS IN BUSINESS JAM

Faces Most Baffling Problems Since '33; Business, Rail Line Aid on Calendar.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt, fresh from a Georgia vacation, faces today the most baffling combination of problems he has encountered since the depths of 1933.

Business recession and political rebellion challenge the New Deal, a new upward revision of relief spending is expected shortly.

Vital problems are piled high on his desk in the executive office. Most urgent is the plight of railroads.

Major business on the president's schedule this week includes:

1. A conference today with representatives of railway labor and management to discuss improving the carriers' credit and reducing their fixed charges.

2. Obtaining quick house approval of plans to make $1,500,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds immediately available for loans to business, including the weakened railroads.

3. A graceful retreat before house opposition to some form of compromise on the government reorganization bill.

4. Formulation of a relief policy for the next fiscal year, probably at a cost considerably above the

NEW CLUE SPURS KIDNAP HUNT

Taxi Driver Tells of Seeing Levine Boy In Speeding Auto.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(INS)—Department of justice agents today sought ownership of an automobile in which kidnaped 12-year-old Peter Levine was reported seen Saturday.

The latest clue to whereabouts of the missing son of Attorney Murray Levine, was furnished authorities by Edward S. Kadec, a Bronx taxi driver, who said he saw a lad he is positive was the Levine boy in a speeding green sedan on New York's east side. Kadec noted the license number of the car.

The taxi driver said he pursued the car, and that the driver raised his hand to shield the child's face.

WAITS SIGNING

TVA Probe Before President; Committee to Be Named.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Congressional leaders awaited President Roosevelt's signature to the Tennessee Valley authority probe resolution today to get the inquiry into the troubled agency's affairs under way.

Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead will name the 10-man senate-house investigating committee soon as the resolution is signed.

Finally approved by congress last week, the resolution had been flown to the president at his Warm Springs, Ga., retreat, but press of business forced him to bring the measure back to the capital unsigned.

Power Plants Seized By Union Workers

Workers keeping night watch, and a guard of the company at Jackson.

Employes of the Consumers Power company seized plants of the company in southern Michigan following breakdown in contract negotiations. The action came after representatives of the CIO union walked out of conference with company officials at Jackson, Mich., when told the management could not renew its contract. Union officers said "the consuming public" would suffer no inconvenience. Photos show workers on night watch at Zilwaukee hydro-electric plant near Saginaw, and plant at Jackson, which company said was unaffected. Gov. Frank Murphy was to confer with strikers today in attempt to settle the trouble.

Huston Promises Prison Terms In Narcotic Cases

Judge Sounds Warning in Talk at Youth Forum, Says There Will Be No More Probation of Violators.

Anyone who comes before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston on a charge of illegal possession of narcotics can expect to go to jail if found guilty. There will be no more probation.

The judge sounded that warning last night when he spoke to the weekly meeting of the Community Christian Youth Forum in the First Presbyterian church.

Describing the traffic in drugs as "an anti-social act," Judge Huston said: "It will be the future disposition of my court not to grant probation to any one found guilty of possession of a narcotic, especially marijuana. Even the first offense deserves a prison sentence," he told 175 young people at the Forum session.

Sterner Measures Needed.

Supplementing his statement today, Judge Huston said he had placed eight young men on probation more than a year ago following their conviction for possession of marijuana. Four more were brought into court on the same charge several months later, he added, indicating that "sterner measures are needed to stamp out the practice."

The last group of offenders, who admitted possession of the narcotic were given prison terms.

Dr. W. E. Wygant, who joined the discussion on "Narcotics" at the meeting last night, described the different types of drugs and their effect on the body and mind.

"Narcotics," he said, "definitely weaken and endanger the mind and body."

At the close of the session, Rev. D. N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Miss Mary Werner, devotional leader, presented Dr. Wygant with a ring as the gift of members of the Youth Forum.

Atty. A. J. Hudson, Cleveland, will be the speaker at next Sunday's forum session at the Park Avenue Baptist church. He will talk on "The Call of Christ to Youth."

HALT MUTINY

Guardsmen Act as Chinese Crew Menaces Jap Officers.

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—U. S. coast guardsmen patrolled the decks of the schooner Kwang Yuan in San Francisco harbor today to prevent further violent outbreaks between three Japanese officers and the 20 members of the Chinese crew.

The guardsmen were alongside the schooner yesterday when the Chinese backed their officers near the rail and threatened their lives.

Guardsmen fired at least a dozen shots into the air when they came over the rail of the Kwang Yuan and found the sailors menacing the officers. Sullen and defiant, the Chinese at first refused to obey the command of the guardsmen. Later they retreated.

The Chinese said they had been mistreated.

Winter Back, Leaves Three Dead In State

Heavy Frost Does More Good Than Harm to Fruit Trees.

Winter's return to Ohio over the week-end caused three deaths that were directly due to the weather, and some damage to fruit crops, although the below freezing temperatures were more beneficial to budding trees than harmful, agriculturists contended.

A heavy frost covered the ground this morning and ice formed where ever there had been water. Saturday night the thermometer dropped to 23 in Mansfield and last night to 28. The highest temperature yesterday was 43 degrees, with an average temperautre of 27 which is 14 degrees colder than the average for April 3.

Flyer Killed in Storm.

In a sudden snow storm near Ashtabula yesterday, an army plane crashed into Lakie Erie and Lieut. Kevin Birke of Selfridge Field, Mich., was killed. John T. McGuiness, 42, Barberton, was found frozen to death in an outdoor camp near Sandusky. On an icy highway near Salem, a motorcycle skidded and threw the rider, Michael Hennings, 26, into the path of an auto, killing him.

Ohio State university agriculture specialists said that the cold wave "may be a boon because it keeps the buds from opening prematurely."

Harold S. Ward, Cuyahoga county agricultural agent, said that buds in northern Ohio were not out far enough to have been damaged. Japanese plum blossoms were killed in Wayne county and vicinity, while peach, cherry and European plum were uninjured.

It was explained that formation of ice on buds tended to protect them instead of killing them. In southern Ohio orchardists reported that there was heavy damage to some crops, but that apple, peach, pear and plum trees had escaped.

The forecast for Ohio is for continued fair and frost tonight with cloudy weather tomorrow and rain or snow.

COUNCIL TO GET PAVING PLANS

Program Up Tomorrow to Call For Work on 3 Streets In Addition to W. Fourth.

City council at its regular meeting tomorrow night will be asked to approve a 1938 street improvement program that will include the paving of three city streets at the cost of approximately $30,000.

George Berg, chairman of council's street committee, who outlined the program today, said the improvements would be in addition to the proposed $83,000 West Fourth street resurfacing project that is now pending before the state highway department in Columbus.

Legislation drafted today calls for the paving of Ausdale avenue from West Park boulevard to Linden road, Willis avenue from First street to West Arch street, and Bartley avenue from Glessner avenue to Parkview street.

Berg said the property owners' share is figured at approximately $25,000 with the city's share $5,000, which is to be paid from the gas tax fund.

He added that the street program will be less intensive this year because of the West Fourth street improvement which will dig deeply into the anticipated gas tax funds to be received by the city from the state. The state has agreed to pay half the cost.

Of the $43,000 to be paid jointly by the city and the property owners, the city's share of $18,000 will be taken from the gas tax fund, of which $30,000 is anticipated this year. The balance of the fund will be used for street maintainance.

Plans for the West Fourth street improvement call for the removal of the old car rails.

UP TONIGHT

Gas Rate Proposal Due to Be Discussed In Shelby.

First formal discussion of the question of a new contract between the city of Shelby and the Ohio Fuel Gas company is expected to take place at a meeting of the Shelby council tonight.

Although Mayor D. B. Young said he expected the company would submit a proposal for a new rate contract, William C. Mead, Mansfield division manager of the company, said he knew of no formal proposal to be submitted and said he had talked only informally with city officials.

Shelby's rate contract, signed five years ago when County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott was mayor, expired a month ago. The rates ascended after the first two years, and the fifth-year rate is still in effect. Under it, the 5,000-foot consumer pays 71 cents a thousand feet.

FRANCO SEEKS TO END CIVIL WAR QUICKLY

Insurgent Offensive Reaches Decisive Phase as Loyalist Strongholds Fall.

80 MILES FROM CAPITAL

Mop Up Operations Underway In Lerida, Gandesas After Swift Capture.

(By Associated Press)

HENDAYE, FRANCE, AT THE SPANISH FRONTIER —Insurgent General Franco's general offensive entered its decisive phase today, with massed armies striking down the main highway to Barcelona and the Ebro valley to the sea after having taken two immediate objectives, Lerida and Gandesa.

In the fourth week of the offensive and the 21st month of the Spanish civil war, the insurgent legions drove into the vital stronghold of the government militia. They were campaigning to cut Spain in two and capture the seat of the government, Barcelona.

Troops Speed to Sea.

Gen. Garcia Valino's Navarrese corps and the Italian Black Arrow division moved against the village of Cherta, about six miles above Tortosa, which looks down on the Mediterranean, after having pushed southeast from Gandesa yesterday.

Gen. Juan Yague's Moorish corps, after entering Lerida last night, threw out advance guards on the road to Barcelona, 80 miles to the east, while mopping up the last bitter resistance within Lerida.

On either side of these two main lines of attack, the wings of General Franco's widespread forces swept towards the Pyrenees frontier with France in the north, and towards the Mediterranean coast in the southeast, menacing Catalonia with isolation and conquest.

The government yielded Lerida, historic key to Catalonia, after terrible hand-to-hand fighting. It had held the besieged fortress for a full week after Franco's troops entered the province March 27.

This morning, insurgent dis-

'Pioneers' Reach 'Ohio Country' In Hand-Hewn Barge

EAST LIVERPOOL—(AP)—The band of dollar-a-day "pioneers" re-enacting settlement of the northwest territory spent their first full day in Ohio today dodging souvenir hunters instead of Indians.

The day's schedule included a ride down the Ohio river from East Liverpool to Steubenville for a parade and banquet.

The 37 buckskinned and coon skin capped college-boy "pioneers" are doing their Ohio pioneering more or less in 1938 style. Their hand-hewn barge "Union Galley" gets pushed by the army engineers' power boat Shenango since it went on a sandbar.

On Tuesday, at Wellsburg, W. Va., livestock and covered wagon will be loaded aboard their scow and the flotilla will proceed to Marietta, O., goal of the expedition, arriving Thursday.

The band started out from Ipswich, Mass., last Dec. 3, by oxen, horse and covered wagon to reenact the settlement of 1787-88, a government project to promote historical interest, for which the "Pioneers" get $1 a day and $100 bonus at the end of the trail. They will be in Mansfield May 2.

Davey's Talk Here Expected To Be Second In His Campaign

Gov. Martin L. Davey, who will speak in Mansfield Wednesday night at a rally postponed from last Friday, will deliver what is expected to be the second address in his campaign for a third term.

Dispatches from Columbus today said the governor is scheduled to make a formal announcement of his candidacy at Youngstown tomorrow night in a speech that will attack John L. Lewis, head of the CIO.

Davey will return to the radio in a talk tonight from Columbus in which he is expected to call for harmony in state party ranks. His secretary, Mrs. Myrna Smith, substituted for him last week when he was called to St. Louis because of the death of his sister-in-law. For the same reason, his Youngstown and Mansfield talks were postponed.

The three addresses this week mark the opening of a vigorous campaign which probably will take the governor into most of the state's 88 counties, his friends said.

Gov. Davey was invited to address the rally here by E. B. Kallmerten, chairman of the Richland county Democratic executive committee, who will introduce him and preside at the meeting.

Party leaders from the six counties in the 17th district and three outside the district have been invited to the rally here Wednesday night.

A musical program, with several numbers by the Mansfield high school band, has been arranged for the meeting.

Here You Are, Housewives--4-Day Food Fashion Revue to be Held Next Week

News-Journal Will Bring Noted Cooking Experts to Ohio Theater.

Mrs. Homemaker, attention!

For your benefit — and indirectly for your family — the News-Journal is bringing to Mansfield next week the Food Fashion Revue, one of the most elaborate of touring cooking schools. It will be staged here with the co-operation of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, which worked with the newspaper last year in presenting one of the most popular cooking schools ever held in this city.

Sessions will be held for four mornings, starting next Tuesday, at the Ohio theater, with nationally known cooking experts presiding.

Miss Ruth Chambers, who learned the fundamentals of cooking and home making in her own home and received her higher education at Stout Institute and the University of Wisconsin, will be in charge of the school. Her assistant will be Miss Emily Conklin.

The school will be what the name suggests, a revue of food trends and fashions, new and attractive dishes will be offered with nutrition and economy given special consideration. Of particular interest and value is the attention paid throughout the course to the subject of meat cookery, since meat is the basis around which the meal is arranged.

Mansfield stores and wholesale concerns will co-operate to make this a school that women will remember. All of the sessions are free and recipes will be given every day. The sessions will start at 9:15 a. m., and be over at 11 a. m.

On Monday night, April 11, a pre-school meeting of Mansfield retail grocers and meat dealers will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

POSSES PRESS HUNT IN TEXAS WASTE LANDS

Murder Victims Tortured and Robbed of $2,000; Bodies Thrown Into Brush.

(By International News Service)

VAN HORN, Tex.—The famed Texas Rangers, scourge of the outlaw for nearly a century, today led an intense manhunt through the border country of West Texas for the slayers of a mother and her pretty 23-year-old daughter.

Victims of the desert murder mystery were Mrs. Weston G. Frome, wife of the assistant sales manager of the Atlas Powder company in Berkeley, Cal., and Nancy Frome, a University of California graduate.

Shot in the head and cruelly tortured the bodies of the two women were found in the brush yesterday six miles from here.

Maniac Blamed.

An autopsy performed by Dr. W. W. Waite, coroner's assistant at El Paso, disclosed the women had apparently fallen into the hands of a maniac.

They had been thrown face down on the ground and probably stamped upon, he said. Mrs. Frome's diaphragm was ruptured and marks on the backs of both women appeared to be boot imprints. The knuckles of Nancy's right hand showed eight or ten small burns as if a cigaret had been ground into it.

A large chunk of flesh had either been gouged or bitten from the arm of Mrs. Frome.

Death, Dr. Waite said resulted from the .45-caliber bullet fired into Mrs. Frome's head and the .32-caliber slug sent through the left temple of the girl.

Their dresses had been ripped off as if in a struggle but whether either had been criminally attacked was still uncertain, Dr. Waite said.

Probe Robbedy Motive.

Robbery, authorities said, was perhaps the underlying cause of the crime. The car in which the two were making a cross-country trip was found abandoned forty miles southwest of here last Wednesday shortly after they were last seen.

Carrying about $2,000 in traveler's checks and more than $100 in cash, the women had been stripped of their possessions including luggage and car tools. A diamond ring was also taken from Mrs. Frome but she still wore her wedding ring and a wrist watch. Nancy still had a diamond ring on her finger but her wrist watch was gone.

Surviving beside her daughter are a brother, Harry Berry of Bend, Ore., and six grandchildren. She was a member of the Christian church.

Funeral services will be held at te Davidson home at 2 p. m. Wednesday in charge of Rev. Carl Driscoll of Lucas. Burial will be in St. John's cemetery near Perrysville.

The word "dentalize" can't be found in the dictionary, and that's the reason it won a prize for Faith Mackey, fifth grade pupil in the Brinkerhoff school, in a dental health poster contest. Faith's poster, which was one of more than 100 entered in the contest in Mansfield, had only three words and a picture of an owl on it. The words were: "Be Wise, Dentalize." Originality in coining the word won the award, judges pointed out.

If you've been in the vicinity of North Park street around noon, you've probably heard the resounding tones of an old-fashioned dinner bell. A restaurant on that street sends a waitress out onto the street every day at noon with a bell which unmistakably says, "Soup's on—come and get it." It has a particular appeal to men raised down on the farm who know from experience that the dinner bell meant hot food and plenty of it.

Five Mansfield girls are pretty sore at the weatherman and who can blame them? They had heard so much of the beauty of the Japanese cherry blossoms at the national capital that they decided this year to make the pilgrimage. And after driving from here to Washington, D. C., what did they see? A blanket of pink and white petals that covered the ground beneath the famous trees. A rain the night before stripped the blossoms from the trees, so that they looked like brown skeletons above a snow of flower petals. The girls who made the trip were Dorothy Keck, Edith Reed, Marsha Roche, Ruth Cleland, and Margaret Oswalt.

Someone obviously thought that the executive of a city should have the national colors in his office, because when Mayor Claude M. Hunter opened the door of his office this morning, he had the impression that it was Independence day, for there were flags all over. One adorn the wall, while two miniature flags were on standards on his desk (we hope they aren't the kind that are made in Japan). He's wondering who decorated his office—but has a suspicion that Mrs. Hunter had a hand in it.

JURORS PROBE KNOX SLAYING

Alleged Wife-Killer Kept In Jail While Relatives Bury Woman; Inquiry Opens.

(By International News Service)

MT. VERNON — The body of Mrs. Philla Mosley, 40, who was found dying of bullet wounds in her home Thursday night, will be taken to Circleville today for funeral services.

The services will be conducted at the St. Paul Evangelican church this afternoon and burial will be at Whisler, 10 miles southeast of Circleville.

Although the husband, Fred Mosley, has expressed a desire to attend the funeral, Knox county authorities said he will not be permitted to go. He was held without charge as a material witness after authorities said he confessed shooting his wife during a quarrel.

Three sons, Charles, 17, Leonard, 15, and Clifford, 13, will be permitted to attend the funeral in custody of juvenile authorities. They too are being held as material witnesses after they at first corroborated their father's story and later testified at a coroner's inquest that he killed their mother.

Mrs. Mosley died of two bullet wounds in the breast and a crushed skull, authorities said. Evidence against Mosley will be presented to the grand jury while his wife is being buried. The grand jury is expected to report sometime tomorrow.

ANNA HAHN WRITES LIFE STORY TO AID HER SON FINANCIALLY

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—In the solitude of her prison cell, as she waits and wonders when she will have to die, Anna Marie Hahn is writing the story of her life.

Warden J. C. Woodard of Ohio penitentiary said today that Mrs. Hahn intended to give the manuscript to her 12-year-old son Oscar in the hope it would benefit him financially.

Magazines, newspapers and authors have besieged Warden Woodard and Mrs. Hahn's attorneys for the privilege of interviewing the convicted poisoner slayer of aged Jacob Wagner of Cincinnati, but the attorneys have ordered that no interviews be allowed.

The attorneys were reported to have been offered large sums of money for an interview or for Mrs. Hahn's life story.

The warden said that Mrs. Hahn, now awaiting action of the Ohio supreme court on her plea for a new trial, had used a typewriter for 30 days.

Col. Alfred Ballin, who was foreman of a special grand jury which investigated the Ohio parole system, said he suggested that Mrs. Hahn be permitted the use of a typewriter after visiting the prisoner in the company of Miss Ann Duffy, secretary to Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy.

Miss Duffy sent the typewriter to Mrs. Hahn, Ballin said.

J. H. Hoodin, Cincinnati attorney for Mrs. Hahn, said she told him Miss Duffy was interested in her story and that he had instructed that it not be released to the attorney general's secretary.

Mrs. Hahn was scheduled to die in the electric chair March 10 but was granted an indefinite postponement when she appealed to the supreme court.

She would be the first woman ever put to death in Ohio's electric chair.

HEALTH HEADS INSPECT 250 FARMS, DAIRIES

Use of Bottlecaps Stating Quality of Product to Be Mandatory After May 1.

Strict enforcement of the U. S. Public Health Service milk ordinance, adopted by the Mansfield board of health nearly three years ago, was begun today by health authorities as they started their inspection of 250 dairy farms and milk plants in the Mansfield district.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner said the inspection of the city's milk supply will continue until all producers and distributors have been checked and the grade of milk announced.

The inspections are expected to be completed by April 15 when all milk sold in the city will be required to bear a bottlecap showing the quality of the product, Dr. Rehder explained. Provisions in the ordinance make the use of caps mandatory after May 1. Only grade "A" raw milk grades "A" and "B" pasteurized milk may be sold then to the consumer.

Ordered Last Fall.

Strict enforcement of the ordinance was ordered last fall after the health board tabled a measure that would have permitted only pasteurized milk products to be sold in the city.

Producers and distributors were given until April 1 to meet the necessary requirements of the ordinance.

The grading of the product is based on the quality of the milk together with the sanitary measures taken in its production and distribution.

Failure to meet the standards set forth in the ordinance calls for the de-grading of the product, Dr. Rehder said, until such time as the sanitation requirements are met, during which time all bottlecaps will be required to show the grade of the product.

The ordinance also provides that the retailer shall display a card showing the lowest grade of milk sold in his establishment.

Fair Enough

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—If there is any authority which has the power to put United States senators over the jumps, prodding them in the pants with sharp questions as private citizens often are entertained by senatorial committees, every member of that body should be summoned now and compelled to tell under oath just what promise or threats, if any, he received in the hours of lobbying which preceded senate passage of the reorganization bill.

Mr. Roosevelt has pointed the issue in his implied charge that the opposition tried to buy votes against the bill with telegrams of protest. That remark was rather fuzzy, because a telegram of petition or protest can hardly involve bribery unless it contains something which could be construed as a promise or offer.

Before Mr. Roosevelt said this, however, a news dispatch out of Washington said that in the last hours before the vote messengers claiming White House authority promised rewards to doubtful senators and uttered threats to stubborn opponents. Heads of government agencies were said to have been among those who worked for the bill, and Jimmy Roosevelt, the president's son and secretary, was reported to have assured the powerful railroad brotherhoods that they need not fear that the president would do anything contrary to their interests. The same piece said that other groups were reported to have received similar assurances.

* * *

I dislike those veal words such as "reported" and "said" by which newspaper men try to pass the buck to persons unknown, but this dispatch is strong enough to command attention. The journalists on the Hill know their statesmen and their lobbyists, and that story would not have been written without information. We have here the substance of a flat charge that mysterious persons went among the elected senators and bribed or threatened them in the name of the president.

The senators are famous for their boldness in bull-dozing private citizens, and it is dreadful to imagine what heckling sarcasm and dirty innuendo, what fury of propaganda and scorn would be turned against any citizen who had used the same methods to oppose an important bill having the president's approval. It is something brand new if anyone has authority to give private assurance to any interest that, by a side agreement not written in the law, that group will receive special consideration from the president. When did congress start using invisible ink and mental reservations? By that precedent any president could send word to any interest that acquiescence in other acts would be rewarded by presidential favor.

* * *

John Lewis apparently thought he had received such an assurance in the campaign of 1936, and the foregoing matter-of-fact remarks from a routine Washington news story, written by reporters who may be suspected of knowing what it is all about, gives support to the suspicion that he did get his assurance but made the mistake of accepting it in sky-writing.

Senatorial courtesy is a beautiful thing and the gentlemanliness of the members of the most exclusive gentlemen's club in the world is a fine example of manners, but courtesty can be carried to unwise extremes. It should not be difficult to put the finger on those members of the club whose political situation is such that they are likely to have received promises or threats.

Moreover, it would be interesting to place those senators on the stand and turn loose some sharp, persistent cross-examiner to drag out of them the plain facts regarding their conversations with the mysterious unnamed persons. If they were promised public money for their states to help them to re-election, what would be the difference between that form of bribery and any other kind?

Jimmy himself should be compelled to take the stand and required to repeat exactly what he said to representatives of the railroad brotherhoods.

* * *

The country could receive no better lesson in the workings of the patronage system that a thorough, impartial Q. and A. report of the conversations between the senators and the messengers and between Jimmy and whomsoever.

This probably is just an idle proposal, however. The senate has been hell on lobbies at times, but an investigation of this one might embarrass certain members of the club. Any gentleman who would do that is no gentleman.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Time creeps along, the movies grow up, and the "second generation" of movie actors is producing a third generation.

Not very fast. But one of the little girls in "Of Human Hearts" was Barbara Bushman, whose father played the blacksmith in the picture and whose grandaddy used to be feminine America's premier heart throb—Francis X. Bushman.

If that's a bit startling, it won't be when you reflect Hollywood's second generation has implanted itself in the film world—and, in many cases, how successfully.

One of the quick-rising stars of last year was Tyrone Power, most lime-lighted of the present "second generation." His father, the late Tyrone Power, was a noted character actor in pictures after a long career as a stage star. Then there are the Bennetts, Constance and Joan, daughters of Richard of stage and screen; and Dolores and Helene Costello, daughters of another pioneer heart throb, Maurice Costello. Douglas Fairbanks, jr., is again a much-in-demand leading man.

Noah Berry, jr., goes right along in westerns, and Tim Holt, son of Jack who keeps on as a western star, is making progress as a featured juvenile. Ann Dvorak is the daughter of Anna Lehr, early-day leading lady.

* * *

But throughout Hollywood the children of movie "names" can be found, both before and behind the camera. And it isn't often, as you might think, a case of dad's getting the kids a job and hoping they'll keep it. Jesse Lasky, jr., writes scripts of his own, and his producer papa can merry well bid on them like the rest if he's interested. That goes for Budd Schulberg, son of producer B. P., whose last script went not to papa but to Selznick. (Selznick himself is a second-generationer—his dad was the late Lewis J. Selznick, under whose banner Clara Kimball Young was a star.)

Diane Rochelle, newcomer at M-G-M, is the daughter of Producer Hal Roach; Katharine DeMille is the adopted daughter of Cecil B.; Fred Kohler, the late Wallace Reid, Erich von Stroheim, the late Lon Chaney, Carlyle Blackwell, Harry Woods all have sons active in films, all as actors except Von Stroheim, jr., who is a technician.

* * *

Mady Christians is daughter of Rudolph Christians, once active in the "silents." Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, son of the late Ernestine, is a character actor. Barbara Denny and Sheila O'Malley, daughters of Reginald Denny and Pat O'Malley, already have begun screen careers, as has Mary Jo Desmond, daughter of the western star William Desmond.

The only producer-son of a producer-father, except for David O. Selznick, is Carl Laemmle, jr. "Uncle Carl" of the old Universal gave Junior his chance and Junior has kept on in that capacity—but at another studio.

Flirtatious Husband Problem

By VIRGINIA LEE.

THERE IS one bit of human nature that we must all recognize in both men and women. Both are attracted to the opposite sex practically from the cradle to the grave. Any man will straighten up, set his tie right, and smooth a hand over his hair when a pretty woman heaves in sight. Every woman becomes alert, gives herself a quick mental going over to see if the chances are she is looking her best, and grows more vivacious when a man comes into view.

But of course most of us react like this moderately. We have no phobias on the subject. Some few are not so forutnate, however.

M. J. R. and her huhband have been married for 15 years, and he "makes eyes at every pretty girl," He never takes his wife out, but is away frequently himself, and she suspects him of unfaithfulness. He says there is nothing between him and other women.

M. J. R. is considered nice looking, she says, keeps her home nice, and has no intention of leaving it. She doesn't want to imitate her husband, but feels that he should be more companionable and not talk to other people about her.

I am sure I do not know what a wife can do with that silly, flirtatious type of man. Nothing seems to cure them of "making eyes" at the girls. I suppose they feel the need of this diversion to keep their self-confidence. I don't know.

If you can't cure him and you have no intention of leaving him, the only thing remaining is to make up your mind he is like that, and you must adjust yourself to him. Stop scolding, accusing or questioning him.

If he won't take you out, join some clubs of women and have interesting times with them. Get yourself some hobbies and work at them. Make yourself an interesting person and you will have plenty of friends. These friends won't take the place of a companionable husband, of course, but they help you to be happy, and keep you from worrying about his actions.

My Neighbor Says:

Poppy seeds must be sown in the open ground as soon as the ground can be prepared. If sown late, failure is likely to result unless seeds are carefully watered and shaded.

When making scalloped potatoes put only salt, pepper and butter between the layers and pour over all a thin white sauce. This prevents curdling and they also cook more easily.

"The Authority on Authorities"

HARD TO FORGET

IT IS NOT easy to give courage to a partner who has made a light opening bid. No matter how powerfully you bid your own cards, he fears he has been the cause of an impending disaster and can't quite forget his early sin. As a consequence, the side may wind up in too low a contract, despite his original boldness.

♠ A Q 9 7 ♥ 6 4 ♦ K 10 9 ♣ J 9 6	W. E. S. N.	♠ 5 3 2 ♥ 7 6 5 3 2 ♦ 5 3 2 ♣ Q 9
	♠ None ♥ 8 4 ♦ K Q 10 7 4 ♣ A J 8 6 3 2

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Because of his distribution, South decided to open with 1-Club, even though his two-suiter happened to be the minors. West over-called with 1-Spade and North doubled. After East passed, South took out in 2-Diamonds, because of his light opening. North then jumped to 4-No Trumps. When this came around to South he was panicky and decided to let well enough alone, for, if he bid again, he was sure North would take the bidding beyond their depth.

West figured there was something wrong with the whole setup, so doubled. North, unable at this point to decide what had happened to his partner, went to 5-Clubs. With all the encouragement North had given, South still refused to bid a slam.

West led his singleton club against this contract. South won it and from then on cashed every trick.

Household Hints

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint.

Kidney Stew or Kidney and Beefsteak Pie
Baked or Boiled Potatoes
Canned Corn Carrot Salad
Raisin Oatmeal Cookies
Coffee or Tea

Kidney and beefsteak pie is strictly English. Mother used to make it, and father and I like it especially well. Don't put carrots in the stew if you are using the carrot salad—unless you like a lot of carrots.

Today's Recipes.

KIDNEY STEW.—Two pounds kidneys, three onions, one tablespoon butter, one pint milk, one cup celery, chopped; diced carrots if desired. Cut kidneys into two-inch squares and cut onions in quarters. Soak kidneys one hour in water, drain dry, season well and roll in flour. Fry in hot fat until rich brown all over. Add one cup water and let simmer about 10 minutes. Remove to stewing pot and add milk, onions, celery, carrots if liked, more seasoning and the butter. Cook slowly until vegetables and meat are tender, add a little thickening if desired and serve over boiled potatoes. Garnish with parsley. An inexpensive and satisfying dish.

You may parboil the kidney if you like, then pour off the water, add fresh and boil gently until tender. Cut into nice sized serving pieces. Cut round steak into serving pieces, brown in fat, cover with water and simmer an hour or so or until very tender. Cook an onion or two with the meat. Put the meats together with the onion and gravy, season well with salt and pepper and put into a baking dish lined with good pie crust. Cover top with another crust, cut vents to let the steam out and bake until crusts are baked and brown.

Raisin Oatmeal Cookies.

One cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, two eggs, one-fourth cup milk, one and two-thirds cups uncooked oatmeal, one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cinnamon. Beat thoroughly, drop onto greased pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 12 minutes. This amount of wetting is correct, so don't add more.

CINNAMON STARS.—One-half pound sugar, five egg whites beaten until stiff, stir one-half hour. Add one-half pound almonds cut fine, one candied lemon peeling cut fine, two teaspoons cloves, two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon lump ammonia, scraped before measuring (you can get this in drug store), enough flour to form dough. Roll dough about one-quarter-inch thick, cut with star cutter, sprinkle with granulated sugar. Press half almond in center of each cookie and bake in moderate oven.

When grease has been spilled on grass matting cover the spot thickly with powdered chalk and moisten with a few drops of benzine. When this has evaporated brush off the chalk and the spot will have disappeared. Do not let any light in the room until the benzine has thoroughly evaporated.

Means of Removing Unwanted Hair

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

Whether you are lolling in a bathing suit or frolicking up to your ears in furs, there's one thing that is pretty important to us, hot or cold. That's the question of what to do about conspicuous unwanted hair.

Of course it is perfectly obvious that something has to be done about it if you're wearing the abbreviated outfits that are so smart for the south. But it's still a burning question to those of us who still are buffeting the storms in winter finery. Stockings are sheer, and we go out in evening clothes. So the problem has gotten to be a year around one.

There are several ways to beat the game. Electrolysis, bleaching, depilatories, shaving and just rubbing them off.

Electrolysis Destroys Hair.

Electrolysis is the only way to destroy the hair for good and all. Each hair is treated separately with an electric needle, and if the job is properly done they don't come back. If you have this in mind, be sure to get the name of a reliable and experienced electrolysis specialist.

Bleaching is a grand and easy way to make the hair invisible. And here's a tip on a bleach that works like a charm. Put about three drops of household ammonia in a saucer of peroxide. Apply it to the hairs, let it dry and give it several more coatings until the hair fades into the color of the skin.

Depilatories, of which there are many brands on the market, come in two classes as a general rule. They are a powder or a wax. The powders are usually some version of barium sulphide. This has been organized to such an extent in recent years that it no longer has the horrid odor that caused strong men to weep and children to scream. The wax type are melted, applied to the skin and pulled off, taking with it the hair. Remember to follow directions carefully if you're going in for depilatories; the manufacturers know best. And always pick a reliable make. If your skin is sensitive apply a little cream or lotion afterward.

Shaving Is Quick.

Shaving is quick, thorough if correctly done, and has a definite place in our minds. It seems the easiest solution to underarm hair. But if you wish to shave the legs, or arms, that can be a success, too. Don't forget, though, that it has to be done quite often, and don't wait for a two-day beard before getting to work again.

We don't recommend using a razor on the face, and by the way, don't get in a frenzy over a little down on your face. If it's dark, bleach it. There's a world of difference between down and superfluous hair.

The rubbing off school of thought usually use pumice or corborundum paper. This erases the hair with a light pressure of your fingers, up and down. It stays away longer and gives a smoother finish than shaving.

If you are going in for thinning out your eyebrows, we think the plucking method is safest. Either have it done or do it yourself. But by this method you can see just how much you want taken off and avert any catastrophes.

Of course we know the whole problem is a nuisance, but after all, with so many remedies, this age-old problem has lost its sting for us.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I suppose there are women, who, confronted with a situation such as had fallen to my lot in the French restaurant, could not have rested until they had confronted husband and feminine companion, and demanded an explanation of the situation, if indeed, they did not execute summary vengeance with their own hands.

But to me, hearing my husband's voice in brutal cowing of this unknown woman whose drunken voice I had heard once before over the telephone, the idea of having him guess I was a witness to the scene was intolerable.

What it all meant, I could not know. It might well mean, I thought drearily, that the beautiful married comradeship into which our life together has ripened was definitely over. This scene effectively disposed of the theory Mary had so adroitly—and ingenuously—advanced to me the night before, that some model, discharged for incompetence, had worked herself into a drunken fury and called Dicky at the hotel to pour reproaches upon his head.

Not a Model.

The woman upon the other side of the partition was not a discharged model, or if she were, she possessed some hold upon my husband sufficient to get him to a restaurant dining table with her. I knew Dicky's reputaton for fair dealing with his models. He was not only scrupulously courteous, albeit a bit aloof in his dealings with them, but he was also kind and generous. Any disagreement with a model over her work would not be his fault, and I knew that he would enter into no personal adjustment of the difficulty, but would refer her and her grievance to his attorney.

No, this was something far more serious, and I came back with a start from my introspection to realize that Mary, in her inimitable way, had solved the problem presented by Dicky's proximity to us.

She had summoned all her histrionic ability, and the experience gained by her study under the father-in-law, Philip Veritzen, and was speaking to the waiter in a slightly high-pitched but carefully muted voice which was entirely strange to the beautifully-modulated one which is her own.

"Escargot's first," she said, 'then Coquille Ct. Jacques. Don't try to talk, Aunt Cora. You'll hurt that hoarse throat of yours. Just nod or shake your head at my questions. You wanted those two dishes, didn't you?"

Wants to Leave.

I nodded my head obediently. Indeed, I could not have spoken if she had wished to hear my voice in acquiescence or rejection. I felt as if I were choking, and I would have given anything to have risen and rushed out of the restaurant. But there was something compelling in Mary's manner that kept me in my seat.

"Bring a salad with the Coquille," she went on, "then for dessert crepe suzette and demi tasses. Do you agree, Aunt Cora?"

I nodded again, and Mary must have seen the rebellion in my eyes, for she reached for the pencil still lying upon the table as the waiter turned away.

But quick as she was, I had it first with the swiftness born of desperation, and I wrote my message with frantic haste.

"Mary, I can't stand this," my flying pencil traced. "We must get out of here. I must not listen to this conversation. Neither must you."

I pushed the paper over to her, and she frowned as she read it. Then she wrinkled her nose at me saucily.

"Why not?" she wrote coolly. "If Uncle Dicky wants to air his dirty linen in public, he mustn't complain if he has auditors."

THEATER

THIS AND THAT: It's a bit unusual but two of the most popular figures in filmdom today—also at the box office—have no temperament, cause their bosses no trouble and present no labor situation. They are Charlie McCarthy and Snow White. . . . Three Sennett bathing beauties of other years who are still doing all right for themselves are Carole Lombard, Louise Fazenda, and Gloria Swanson, who will resume picture work after several years inactivity. Most of the other Sennett stars have left the screen world or died . . . Marie Wilson, the dark-eyed blond who is typed as a "blond dumb bell," is a "natural" for the role of the waitress in "Boy Meets Girl," in which Jim Cagney and Pat O'Brien will be the two nutty playwrights.

• • •

Charlie Ruggles as a big game hunter is just one of the many idiocies in "Bringing Up Baby," the Hepburn-Cary Grant picture at the Madison. A test of Charlie's skill, with a wild leopard as the objective, is a highlight of the picture. The whole thing is a farce comedy on the rowdy side, with hilarious situations. The handsome Grant dons horn rimmed spectacles to make him look like a professor of zoology, while Miss Hepburn is in one of her best and most likable characterizations as the conscienceless daughter of wealth who is determined to have her own way—and her man—or else. Mae Robson, grand old lady of the screen, and Walter Catlett add to the happiness of the audiences.

Made Rapid Strides.

It seems scarcely creditable that the luscious Gail Patrick, who plays a glamorous movie star in "Mad About Music," is the same Birmingham beauty who came to the screen by way of the "Panther Woman" contest several years ago. She was just an oddity then, but it gave her an opening which she has followed up advantageously. She is now in constant demand as a leading woman. In "Mad About Music" she plays the mother of Deanna Durbin, a youngster in a Swiss school who doesn't dare claim her mother and has no father—until she decides to make one up. He turns out to be Herbert Marshall. There is romance and superb music in the picture, which is at the Ohio.

• • •

"Small Town Girl."

Most readers of The News-Journal will remember "Small Town Girl," the newspaper serial by Ben Ames Williams, one of the most popular ever published by this paper, and which later was made into a motion picture with Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor in the leading roles. The film, reissued recently, will be offered at the Majestic for three days, starting tomorrow. The cast includes Binnie Barnes, Lewis Stone, Andy Devine and James Stewart. This was one of Stewart's first appearances in pictures. The second feature is "Night Spot," with Parkyakarkus, Allan Lane, Gordon Jones, and Joan Woodbury.

• • •

It Could Happen Here.

It could only happen in a Wheeler and Woolsey comedy, but when these two nit-wits fly a stolen plane—a police plane at that— it carries stolen jewels, and when the ship cracks up they land on the very estate of the man who owns the gems. They are hailed as detectives instead of thieves, and by good luck rather than brains, they manage to return the gems and claim the credit. Lupe Velez puts on fireworks in the film and Marjorie Lord comes into the romantic end of it. Of more serious theme is "Big City," with Spencer Tracy and Luise Rainer, the two players who recently won the Academy awards for the best acting of last year.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, April 5.

ACCORDING TO the lunar transits, this should be a very lively day, with the energies fairly well stimulated for putting over important propositions. Employers and those in places of authority should be inclined to lend substantial support or encouragement. But be alert to plots, schemes, intrigues and false reports, both in business and private associations. Some surprising change or journey may prove advantageous.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be ready for some surprising development which will stimulate their affairs and possibly be of great encouragement in new undertakings. They should be able to obtain the solid support and co-operation either of employers or those in places of influence and financial stability. But be wary as to underhand factors, plots, intrigues or peculiar angles, as deceit and misrepresentations may menace both business and personal associations.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, constructive and ambitious, and have much originality and ingenuity. This may insure a life of romance and adventure as well as practical achievement.

Questions On Weddings Answered

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Neither my fiance nor I have a church of our own and yet we would like to have our wedding in church and not at some magistrate's office. When a bride-to-be finds herself in this situation, what is there left for her to do?

Answer: It is not necessary to have joined a protestant church in order to ask a minister to marry you. You of course go to see the clergyman of which ever church you like best; that is, the church to which you perhaps occasionally go and might some day want to join.

• • •

Dear Mrs. Post: When the bride and groom wait at the back of church after the ceremony to receive the good wishes of the congregation as they pass out of the church, are they supposed to receive alone, or may the attendants stand with them, and the mothers? In our case we are having only the immediate families at a reception so that guests will have no chance of meeting the groom's mother and his sister who is the attendant, both of whom are strangers in town.

Answer: The same people who would receive if there were to be a reception can always stand at the back of the church with the bride and groom, and speak to the congregation, but there would not be any regular receiving line under such circumstances. Maybe I can explain this better by saying that the bride and groom would be standing nearer to the line of the departing congregation. The others would stand a little distance away, and not together in a line, so that people could see them and have a few words with those whom they know especially well, but not file by a reception line in a queue. In your case, if your mother, with the groom's mother and sister, would stand a little apart in a group of three, this would encourage the more intimate friends to come up and shake hands with her and give her an opportunity of introducing them to the groom's mother and sister. People who know the families slightly simply shake hands with the bride and groom and pass on out of the church.

• • •

Dear Mrs. Post: I am dressing in white and wearing a veil, but having no attendants at all except a young niece for flower girl. This is the only way I can prevent making a host of hurt friends. My fiance is having a best man and at least four, or quite possibly six, ushers. Because there are no bridesmaids in the procession, will it be better not to have the ushers walk up the aisle? In this case where do they wait?

Answer: It will be entirely proper to have the ushers walk up the aisle followed by your little flower girl and you, last.

Ol' Buzz Looks To Mansfield

Operator of Tribe Farm Is Said to Be Interested In Franchise Here.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

DONT count Mansfield out of the Ohio State league yet, according to word from Prexy Harry Smith's office in Columbus. Buzz Wetzell, who operates the Springfdiel, O., club in the Mid-Atlantic league for the Indians, is toying with the idea of backing a team in the Class D circuit. Acquainted with the fact that Billy Evans and the Red Sox did a pretty good missionary job in the city last summer, Wetzel is said to be more than mildly interested in the Mansfield franchise. But more information on this report later . . . Bob Nash of Akron West, one of the finest high school athletes in the state, will continue his athletic career at Akron college, not a Kent as some seem to think. . . . Yelps about some of the decisions rendered in the Marion amateur bouts are still being heard . . . The trophy awarded to the state high school basketball champions is presented in honor of Johnny Miner, one of Ohio State's greatest.

Dunkirk Not to Appear In Relays

DUNKIRK, not Silver Springs, was the New York school which sought permission to appear in the Mansfield Relays, Harry Mehock apologizes. It abandoned the idea of participation because of a dual meet it has scheduled on the same day, Mehock has been notified. . . . Despite poor attendance at the home games, Mansfield high school has had a profitable cage season. The slice of the gate receipts at the district and state tournaments and the bonus awarded the Ohio finalists last week bolstered the receipt side of the ledger not a little . . . Don Cram, Y. M. C. A. prysical director, is taking a lot of kidding for his failure to report to the scorers in a recent basketball game.

Portsmouth Hurler to Pilot Fostoria

JACK FARMER, who hurled for Portsmouth, O., last year, has been named to manage the Fostoria entry in the Ohio State league. . . The Eddie Joseph who refereed the Apostoli-Lee scrap in NYC the other night is not the same Eddie Joseph who once promoted fights in this burgh . . . To EDS: The Mansfield high school football schedule has not been completed. The schedule so far includes games with Massillon, Canton McKinley, Akron West, Sandusky, Shelby, and Ashland . . . They say Bill McKechnie has sobered up the Reds, who were known as the "Roughhouse Reds" under Charley Dressen. . . . Pitcher Elden Auker has made more money out of his fruit-packing plant at Lakeland, Fla., than he received for hurling for the Tigers. . . . Gerry Adams, who conducts a hotel at Orlando, Fla., says Buddy Lewis of the Senators is the champion eater of the Senators. He's the slenderest man on the club, too.

BUCYRUS TO COMPETE IN MANSFIELD RELAYS

BUCYRUS — Included in the events the Bucyrus high school track team will compete this spring is the Mansfield Relays, April 23. Coach Eldon Armbrust announced today. The Redmen open their season April 12 at home with Galion.

Bucyrus has scheduled other dual meets Marion and Shelby, and will also compete in the N. C. O. conference meet in Mt. Vernon May 6, in addition to a quadrangular meet with Galion Mt. Vernon and Ashland, April 23.

Barons Fight to Stay In Playoffs

CLEVELAND — (INS — Their backs to the wall, the injury-ridden Cleveland Barons tonight will make what may be a last stand in the International-American league hockey playoffs.

Last night in Syracuse the Barons dropped a 6 to 3 decision to the Stars, and lost still another player. With only 12 men available, Coach Bill Cook saw Earl Roche, veteran forward, hospitalized with an eye injury. Cook said he would not call in any players from the minor leagues, although he has but 11 left.

10,000 See Bob Feller Stop Giants

Kid Pitcher Outduels Hubbell In Houston Park.

HOUSTON, Tex. — (UP) — The name of Bob Feller is still "box office" magic.

The 19-year-old Iowa farmboy was the principal magnet which drew 10,000 persons out here yesterday to see the Cleveland Indians down the New York Giants 4 to 2 in an exhibition game.

Still 'Sunday Pitcher.'

Feller, nursed along carefully by Manager Oscar Vitt this season but still the club's "Sunday pitcher" gave a masterful exhibition as he outdueled the great Carl Hubbell in a fine mound battle.

Yesterday's game marked the third straight Sunday that Feller had been sent out to the box in exhibition contests and gave additional weight to the belief Vitt was "spoofing" when he said the youthful right-hander would work in regular turn along with other pitchers on the staff.

Feller flashed his finest form of the spring training campaign yesterday and indicated he will come down to the opening of the championship campaign in top form rather than fagged out as was the case a year ago.

The speed ball phenomenon worked six innings. He granted seven hits, all of them singles, and permitted two runs. Feller struck out six batsmen and walked four.

The impressive thing about the youngster's performance was the smart fashion in which he held runners on base. Never once did Feller permit a Giant runner to get a dangerous lead off the sack. Only one New Yorker attempted to steal and he was thrown out by Catcher Rollie Hemsley.

Protects Lead.

Cleveland scored one run in the second and three in the third to give Feller a 4 to 2 advantage when he left the box. Al Milnar, husky southpaw, protected that margin by blanking the Giants in the final three innings. The clubs meet again today at Austin.

Lodge Clubs Win, Lose

Mansfield teams split even in their Traveling league matches Sunday. Mansfield No. 1, with a 2836 total, took three games from Massillon at the Meder alleys, while the No. 2 entry took it on the chin twice in its series with Barberton.

Streaks Meet Newark Saturday, Lose Opener to Fremont, 69-49

Linta Wins 2 of 5 Firsts Registered by Mansfield In 1938 Debut.

DEFEATED by a margin of 20 points in their debut, Mansfield high school's track and field representatives today started preparations for their second dual meet of the season with Newark at Stadium field Saturday.

In losing to Fremont Ross, 69 to 49, on the home turf Saturday, the current edition of the Red Streaks won the unsought distinction of being the first Harry E. Mehock-coached squad to lose its initial dual meet in 12 years.

Shows Weaknesses.

Mansfield showed many weaknesses in the dual affair staged in winter-like weather, but Mehock, although disappointed, believes the squad will develop.

One of the surprises Saturday was the strength displayed by the Men of Mehock in the field. Usually weak in this department, the Red Streaks won three of the five field events, while placing first in only two of the nine track events.

Mansfield was weakened for the meet by the injuries which kept Mehock's hurdle aces, Dave Shelley and Daryl Heiser, on the sidelines, but the Streaks would not have won even if these two mainstays had been available, the final results showed.

Jimmy Logan, one of the early season casualties, competed in the sprints. He finished second in the century, and was setting the pace in the 220-yard dash when he suffered a recurrence of the old injury. Unless the injured leg muscles respond to treatment, Logan will not be able to appear in uniform Saturday, Mehock said. Shelley and Heiser will be available Saturday, however.

John Linta was outstanding for the Red Streaks. He showed midseason form to win the pole vault, and then came back to take the low hurdles in the fair time of 27-6 seconds.

Linta leaped well over 12 feet as he marked up five points for the Streaks in the pole vault.

Elmer Dials, Richard Nagle and Dick McMullen registered the other Mansfield victories. Dials scales the high jump rod at five feet, six inches; Nagle tossed the discus 105 feet and McMullen braved an uncomfortable wind to take the 440 in 54.6 seconds.

Fall Proves Costly.

Fremont took both relay events, Dick Sampsel accidentally falling in the second lap to deprive Mansfield of what appeared certain victory in the mile event.

Mansfield scored in every individual event but two, and registered one clean sweep in the pole vault, Jack Lyons and Howard Hershey tying for second place.

The Red Streaks failed to score in the high hurdles in which Mehock entered a team of sophomores and broad jump.

Picard Leads Way, But Fans Eye Jones

Host Stages Comeback to Trail Leader By Seven Strokes In Masters' Tournament.

By PAUL MICKELSON

AUGUSTA, Ga.—(AP)—A tightly jammed star field, led by the straight shooting Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., headed down the final 18-hole stretch of the fifth annual Augusta National Invitational Golf championship today but he big news was that grand slammer from Jaw-Juh, Mr. Robert Tyre Jones, jr.

To the elation of everyone, Bobby made a comeback reminiscent of his world-conquering days yesterday when he breezed over the final nine holes with a record-tying 33 to post a third round total of par 72 and a 54-hole tally of 222, just seven shots behind Picard.

Most of the gallery of 5,000 spectators watched him and gave him a great ovation.

Wee Bobby Cruickshank, trimmed by the old master in the national open play-off at Inwood 15 years ago, predicted Jones was good enough to come back.

"Give him five tournaments," said Cruickshank, "and I think he still could beat the world at golf."

"It was more encouraging than any round I've played here," said Jones happily. "I felt more like my old self because I hit the ball firmly and had a fair idea where it was going."

Jones has improved steadily from the first round, scoring 76-74-72 successively. No one expects him to win but he stands a fine chance of bettering his best showing for the tournament, which was a tie for 12th place.

Casualties were numerous yesterday as the 40-man field struggled against a shifting wind. As Picard scored a pair of even par 72's alongside his first round 71 to post the leading total, 215, foremost of the labelled also-rans who rallied was Gene Sarazen. Gene began with a 78 Saturday but got a 70 and a great 68 to tie for second, a shot behind Picard, with Ed Dudley, Harry Cooper and Ralph Guldahl, national open champion.

Madison Grid Candidates Report to Fendrick

More than 60 athletes reported for practice as Fendrick prepared to mold together the aggregation which will carry the Madison banner next fall.

The huge squad was divided into six teams, which will play a round-robin series over the four-week training period.

Fendrick has appointed underclassmen to coach the eleven to play under the titles of well-known colleges.

The winner of the series will be guests of a party sponsored by the "M" association at the end of the training season.

All other spring activities at the school will be under an intramural program consisting chiefly of several track events, baseball and softball games and tag football.

The personnel of the six grid squads and their respective coaches follow:

MANSFIELD mineralite wielders stood up well in the standings after the second week-end of bowling in the American Legion state tournament, which will be concluded at the Meder Recreation alleys next Sunday.

Two Mansfield teams held places among the first 10 in the five-man division, with the No. 1 enry holding the lead with 2935; three of the doubles combinations placed among the leaders and W. S. (Brig) Young moved into third place in the all-events with an 1820 aggregate.

Young, Craig Lead Way.

Led by Young's 626 and Roy Craig's 619, the Mansfield No. 1 pounded out three good-sized 900 games to step in front in the five-man division.

Defiance compiled a 2901 total to gain second place, and Ashland, with Summerton contributing a 620, rolled out a 2842 to jump into third place.

All of the other teams totals were less than 2800, with the Montpelier club, which took the lead in the first week of the tournament, dropping down to fifth place a notch a head of the Mansfield No. 2, which registered a 2765.

Howard Sanders, who bowled with the Jefferson Clothiers of Middletown, A. B. C. champions of 1932, and his partner, Bill Bogan, rapped out a 1203 to gain the lead in the two-man department. Sanders contributed a 661 in the series.

Charles Howard, formerly of Mansfield, and his Ashland partner, Keen, upset 1199 pins to step into the runner-up position, and two Mansfield duos, Fairman and Finefrock, 1165, and Young and Robertson, 1150, retained the next two notches.

Takes Singles Lead.

D. Caskey of Medina accounted for a beautiful string of games to take the singles lead with a hot 705 total. Starting out with a 209, Caskey pushed over 10 straight strikes in the middle game to reach 286 and then finished with a 210.

Reed of Middleton, climaxing his string with a 277, rolled a 681 for second place, and Summerton of Ashland put over a 673 for third. McSeareey of Defiance held fourth place with a 658.

Magyar, Pope Tangle At Armory Tonight

Prince Ilaki, Routt Go to Mat In Semi-Final Bout; Steele, Wolf Meet In Curtain Raiser.

ANXIOUS to make a good showing before the extension of his stay in this country expires, Joe Magyar, light-heavyweight title contender of Budapest, Hungary, is determined to make quick work of Eddie Pope, Rocky Mount, N. C., chiropractor, when they tangle in the main match on Tim Nolan's Quality club wrestling show at the Armory tonight. Magyar must return to his country in May.

Defeated by Frankie Talaber, handsome Chicagoan, in his last appearance, Magyar is particularly anxious to win tonight to force a rematch with the Windy City grappler, who won the world's light-heavyweight title by beating Billy Weidner in 31 minutes in Columbus last week.

Billed For Two Falls.

Magyar and Pope will wrestle for two falls with a time limit of an hour and a half, headlining a card of three bouts. Semi-final action will be provided by the Arabian light-heavyweight, Prince Ilaki Ibn Ali Hassan, and just plain R. R. (Railroad) Routt, Louisville veteran.

Francis Steele, Plymouth motor officer, will step into high class competition when he meets Jumpin' Joe Wolf, Columbus footballer.

The bar is down to women again tonight and all members of the fair sex will be admitted free of charge if accompanied by escorts. The first contest is slated to be under way at 8:30.

Giants Stack Up As Dangerous

Terry's Team Best Looking Outfit In South; National Champs Are Confident, Too.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—Returning from a spasmodic tour of the training camps from Louisiana through Florida, the thought persists that the best looking team of the lot were your old pals, the New York Giants, as handled by Writin' Bill Terry.

Even though they do belong to that new minor league—the National—the Giants are the calmest, most assured crew of the lot. They know they are as good and maybe a little better than they were the last two seasons, when they were good enough to finish No. 1.

No Petty Strife.

Considering that beating they took from the Yankees in the World series last fall, their morale and confidence is the more remarkable. Their camp was almost the only one of a dozen visited where there was not heard a whisper of petty strife between individuals, or where the manager was not distracted about something or other.

The Yanks, at first glance, appeared to be as sanguine as their rivals across the Harlem river. They moved around in the early days of training like the champions they are. But as time went on and there was no news from Joe DiMaggio, the Ruppert menage lost some of its conviviality. Right now they are not very happy.

If Joe McCarthy still thinks he can win with Jolting Joe in San Francisco he is a very tenacious thinker. Almost nobody else does.

Of course it still is considered certain that Dimaggio will come along presently and sign for the $25,000 he has been offered.

The most interesting club, and at the same time the one most difficult to figure out, is the St. Louis Cardinals. It seems safe only to say that they don't look like a real threat to the Giants, and that if the Giants are to be licked it will have to be by either the Chicago Cubs or the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Cards could finish almost anywhere in the first division, except at the top. They are, perhaps, the most poorly balanced team in either league.

Sox "Dark Horse."

Team likely to spring the biggest surprise is the Boston Red Sox. Joe Cronin has a really good team, even if Joe's legs are beginning to creak a little. All the Sox need is for a couple of their young pitchers to come through, and in young Jim Bagby they may have found a great one.

The next best bet is that Cincinnati will climb up to about fifth place in the National league, and then get progressively tougher as the seasons roll by. The Reds' brilliant young southpaw pitchers gradually are gaining control. When they finally get it, look out!

Martin Beats Reds, 7 to 2

TAMPA, Fla.—(U.P.)—With a record of 12 victories and six defeats to show for their long exhibition stand in Florida, the Cincinnati Reds will break camp here tonight and begin a series of one-day stops.

During their swing north the Reds will play eight games with the Boston Red Sox and four with the Detroit Tigers.

Cincinnati closed its Florida schedule yesterday by dropping a 7 to 2 decision to the St. Louis Cardinals. "Pepper" Martin, the colorful but erratic Cardinal veteran who plays both the infield and outfield, put on a brilliant one-man exhibition to sink the Reds.

Martin, playing third base in place of the rookie Sammy Baugh, secured four hits in as many trips to the plate. One of his safeties was a home run, two were triples and the other a single. He scored two of St. Louis' runs and drove in three more. Defensively "Pepper" handled four chances with ease.

DAYTON STARTS TRAINING

GREENSBORO, N. C.—(AP)—The Dayton Ducks of the Mid-Atlantic league opened spring training here today. Manager "Red" Rollings said he expected between 30 and 36 players for the first workout.

New York Teams Advertise Fair

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—New York's three major league baseball clubs—The Yankees, Giants and Dodgers—will advertise the 1939 world's fair here with blue and orange emblems attached to each player's uniform sleeve, fair president Grover Whalen announced today.

It will be the first time that any major league club has permitted anything but club insignia on uniforms, according to fair sports director, Christy Walsh, who thought of the idea.

WANTS CHANCE TO TAKE APPLING'S PLACE

AUSTIN, Tex.—(AP)—Infielder Tom Carey, optioned to Hollywood of the Coast league, by the St. Louis Browns a week ago, is remaining in camp and asking the club to trade him to the Chicago White Sox to replace Luke Appling, Sox shortfielder, who broke his leg. "I still think I'm good enough to play in the American league," says Tom.

'Bud' Can Help

If LeRoy (Buddy) Parmelee comes through, the Chicago Cubs will be serious contenders in the National league race. A frequent winter visitor to Mansfield, Parmelee, whose home is in Toledo, is showing great form on the mound in spring training.

Scorer Rolls 714 to Hold Up Syracuse Partner.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Syracuse occupied a spot today among the big ten leaders of the current American bowling congress world's championships here as a result of "free ride" given Frank Livignale yesterday afternoon.

Frank needed a partner in the doubles. Officials of the congress fixed him up with a "blind date." The unknown was Jerry Kral, former Chicago veteran of the bowling wars, now a resident of Shawano, Wis., and an official scorer at the pin carnival. Kral rolled in the singles during the first week. He was looking for a chance to fill in the doubles. He took the decks with Livignale and proceeded to knock down a gigantic bundle of 714 sticks. The Syracusan struggled along, getting a lot of good exercise and 576 pins. All of which made the imposing joint total of 1290 which was good enough to go into a tie for sixth place with Dominic Loget and Tom Coyne of New Brunswick, N. J.

Jerry with his 636 in the solo division gave himself a running start on the all-events trail with 1350. He was quickly snapped up by a local five-man team captain and will make his bid on April 14 for the all-events diamond medal.

Nick Mergen of Flint, Mich., accounted for the only other change during the heavy day of bombardment, when he clicked off 691 for sixth place in the singles honor column.

Behringer Diamonds of Buffalo, N. Y., topped the five-man firing last night with 2945 on games of 986-1015-947.

WINS AT THREE OAKS

HOUSTON, Tex.—(INS)—Wayne Sabin of Hollywood, held the River Oaks tennis title today. He defeated Ernie Sutter of New Orleans in the finals.

CLEVELAND RAMS MAY DRAFT ARIZONA STAR

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Rams may try for Bronko Smilanich, University of Arizona junior halfback, in the draft next winter, Manager Damon Wetzel of the Rams said today. He explained Smilanich was recently signed by the Rams under the impression he was a senior, and that the Arizona gridder would not be permitted under National league rules to play pro football until his class graduates.

Shelby Cager Leads Scorers

Clark Tops Bi-County League With 96 Points.

Clark of Shelby Junior high won the individual scoring championship of the Bi-County league with a total of 96 points, Robert Y. Davis of Hedges, Mansfield, president of the circuit, announced today.

NEW KIND OF TIRE

GIVES THE QUICKEST NON-SKID STOPS YOU'VE EVER SEEN!

HERE'S THE EVIDENCE

from America's Largest Independent Testing Laboratory!

"Both regular, and also the premium-priced tires of America's six largest tire manufacturers were submitted to a series of exhaustive road tests made over a three months' period by us, to determine their resistance to skidding and wear, with the following results:

"NON-SKID—The new Goodrich Silvertown with the Life-Saver Tread gave greater skid resistance than any other tire tested, including those tires listed at from 40% to 70% higher in price.

"MILEAGE—The Goodrich Silvertown gave more non-skid mileage than any of the other tires tested in its own price range—averaged 19.1% more miles before the tires wore smooth.

"BLOW-OUT PROTECTION—Despite the severe nature of these tests, no Silvertown blew out, or failed from any cause, while two tires of other makes failed."

A. R. Ellis, President
PITTSBURGH TESTING LABORATORY

Wins Hands Down in Competitive Road Tests by Famous Testing Laboratory!

AGAIN Goodrich makes tire history! With a new Goodrich Silvertown that is really two great tires in one! For inside the tire is Golden Ply protection against high-speed blow-outs. And outside is the new Life-Saver Tread that, in exhaustive road tests by the impartial Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory, gave "greater skid resistance than any other tire tested."

How It Works

This tread is actually a road dryer! Its never-ending spiral bars, acting like a battery of windshield wipers, sweep water from under the tire, force it out through the deep drainage grooves—make a dry track for the rubber to grip.

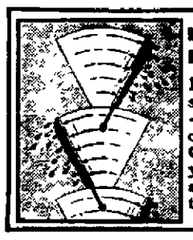
Come in today for a free demonstration that will give you one of the greatest motoring thrills you ever had. Don't miss it, because you'll never know what the word STOP really means until you've felt the grip of this new Safety Silvertown on a wet, slippery road.

No Extra Cost!

Remember, this new skid-protected Goodrich Silvertown also has the famous Golden Ply protection against blow-outs. So you get two great life-saving features—AT NO EXTRA COST!—to say nothing of 19.1% greater non-skid tire mileage—which means you get EVERY 6TH MILE FREE! Don't forget! Make your next set of tires Goodrich Safety Silvertowns.



LIFE-SAVER TREAD WORKS LIKE A BATTERY OF WINDSHIELD WIPERS

Its never-ending spiral bars sweep the water right and left—force it out through the deep drainage grooves. Thus, with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns on your car, you constantly have a dryer, safer road surface for the rubber to grip.

GOLDEN PLY PROTECTS YOU AGAINST HIGH-SPEED BLOW-OUTS

Every New Silvertown has the famous Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist internal tire heat. By resisting this heat, the Golden Ply gives you real protection against high-speed blow-outs.

PROFIT SELLING PUTS STOP TO STOCK RALLIES

Rails Listed Among Issues Managing to Post Modest Gains In Shuffle.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Profit selling in leading stocks put brakes on an extension of the week-end rally in today's market but a number of issues managed to post modest gains in the shuffle.

Dealings were only moderately active at the opening, and volume dwindled further near the second hour.

Rails were inclined to advance as management and labor representatives prepared to confer with the president at the White House on a program for rejuvenating transportation finances.

Carrier loans pushed upward in the bond department. Commodities were uneven.

Market analysts scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which found miscellaneous demand for the metal was the principal sustaining influence in the industry at present, with important orders from automotive, railway and structural fabricating fields lacking.

Little immediate support can be expected from the motor makers, it was said, with some builders planning to end production of present models as early as June.

Observers in automobile centers, at the same time, were of the opinion April should be at bit better than March.

HIGH GRADUATE OF 1869 DIES

Mrs. Rose Hahn Was Member of 8th Class of Mansfield High School.

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Rose L. Hahn, 85, who was a member of the Mansfield High school graduating class of 1869, the eighth in the history of the school.

Mrs. Hahn, the widow of William M. Hahn, died Saturday afternoon at her home, 62 Sturges avenue, after an illness of more than two years. She was born in Mansfield, the daughter of John and Harriet Lewis Hiltabidle, pioneers of the city, and had spent her entire life here.

After graduating from high school she taught for a year in the public schools. She was a member of St. Luke's Lutheran church and remained active until she suffered a stroke about two years ago.

She took an active interest in civic affairs and charitable activities and on several occasions she served on the board of the Charity club, the Humane society and Mansfield Garden club.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Irene S. Hines, and two nephews, Cloyd A. and Ray E. Hines, all of this city, and several other nieces and nephews.

Services were conducted at the home, with Rev. Herbert S. Garnes in charge. Burial was made in the mausoleum at Mansfield cemetery.

BULKLEY FLAYS C. OF C. IN OHIO

Criticizes Bulletin Urging Members To Oppose Reorganization.

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Activity of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce in stimulating opposition to the administration's government reorganization bill was criticized today by Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Ohio.

Sen. Bulkley said he received a copy of a "private bulletin" signed by Secretary George B. Chandler which urged chamber membership to wire congressmen in opposition to the measure.

"I am sure the people of Ohio will be interested in the nature of these private bulletins but I doubt that this old trick will be very effective in influencing members of congress," Sen. Bulkley said.

MAYOR NAMES HOUSING BOARD, CALLS MEETING

Acts to Get Project Started at Once by Committee Session Today.

Acting with all possible speed to get a slum clearance project started in Mansfield, Mayor Claude M. Hunter today had completed his five-member committee to survey housing conditions here and had called a meeting of the group for 2 p. m. today.

The committee, named by Hunter late Saturday, was to meet with the mayor at the city building this afternoon for the purpose of organizing and selecting a chairman, while their duties and the purpose of the housing project will be outlined to them.

Named to the committee were John A. Massa, jr., 135 Blymyer avenue, secretary of the Citizens Saving and Loan company; E. B. Kallmerten, 95 Brinkerhoff avenue, president of Kallmerten and Baer, Inc., builders supplies dealers, and chairman of the Richland County Democratic Executive committee; A. J. Duffy, 428 Springmill street, a building contractor, representing the building trades council, and Charles W. Conklin, 20 Dawson avenue, an architect.

Wants Early Action.

Hunter said he had called for an early meeting of the group in order to get the survey started so a permanent board might be set up here to conduct the housing project.

He explained that the five-man committee will function only until the preliminary survey is completed and their report is made to the state housing board in Columbus.

If evidence is shown that the city needs a slum clearance project a Metropolitan Housing Authority of five members to conduct the program will be appointed, the mayor said.

The mayor was selected by a group of representative citizens at a housing clinic sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Friday night to make the appointments to the temporary committee.

A Farmer's Diary

April 3.

LAST evening dancing pellets of snow bounced upon the porch roof---this morning the view was white, the air cold, the ground frozen. To the farmers this change of weather has meant millions of dollars gain.

The early warmth of March has brought the fruit buds prematurely out. Too early bloom would mean almost certain freezing and loss of crop. Now they will be retarded and the buds already showing pink will be toughened and made hardier.

The wheat in a few more weeks of warmth would have started stems. Cold weather would then have done irreparable damage. Now the bite of frost has prevented too rapid growth and saved the wheat.

In all the farmers' new-plowed fields the frozen upturned loam is full of insect larvae. The million dollar freeze has rid the soil of many of them and made it loose and mellow.

Those wriggling angleworms who had been enticed from their burrows by early spring rains and warmer weather are driven back downward. They have made a new line of pores through which the plants can breathe, and draw moisture and life.

To city peopde freezing weather may have meant discomfort and bigger coal bills, but farmers can be glad! In spite of the chilly blast, the sun was bright this morning. From the distanct I heard the blithe whistle of the bobwhite, the cheerful chirp of the robin. Only the peewee was silent.

It is indeed an ill wind that blows no good. When the orchards burst into bloom a few weeks hence, when spring comes at its normal time and too precociously—then we shall all be very hapy that these parting pangs of winter insured us double joy.

CLAIMS LAWYER GOT 'OFFER' ON 'HOT MIX' SUIT

Mrs. Dickinson Says She Fired Counsel Because of $15,000 Bribe to 'Throw' Case.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Mrs. Agnes Dickinson asserted in common pleas court today that she dismissed her attorneys in two suits against state government departments because one of them received a $15,000 offer from an undisclosed source to "take a nose-dive" on the casse.

The woman lawyer made the statements in opposing unsuccessfully an effort of Ben Levinson, her former attorney, to file an intervening petition in Mrs. Dickinson's suits against Shaw Transport, Inc., and certain "hot mix" pavement contractors, both subjects of a senate graft-hunting investigation.

Levinson, who was dismissed as counsel last week by Mrs. Dickinson, won approval from Judge Dana F. Reynolds to intervene in the suits in behalf of Mrs. Bessie Zuravsky of Columbus, getting back into the litigation from which he was ousted.

Hears Phone Message.

Mrs. Dickinson introduced an affidavit in which she asserted that she was present, listening on an extension telephone, when Levinson received on March 16 in his office a call proposing a settlement of the cases.

The offer was made by a man whose voice Mrs. Dickinson said, she recognized as that of a person named by Levinson but whose identity was not disclosed.

"If you guys want to take a little money and settle this thing up," Mrs. Dickinson related the caller said, "I would be glad to approach the other side."

The caller mentioned $15,000 as a fair amount but refused to proceed when Levinson suggested that only a court-approved settlement could be accepted, Mrs. Dickinson testified.

A few days later, Mrs. Dickinson continued, Levinson told her the same man had offered him $15,000 "to take a nose dive" on the case, which was explained as "when you pretend to do something but you really don't."

Mrs. Dickinson asserted that thereafter she had difficulty with Levinson and that he handled improperly a deposition hearing in the suit against "hot mix" contractors who, her petition alleged, overcharged the state from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000 on highway contracts.

Laborite Strikes Conservative, Calmly Goes Back to Seat.

LONDON—(AP)—Emanuel Shinwell, a laborite member of parliament, strode across the floor of the house of commons today and slapped the face of Commander Robert Tatton Bower, a conservative member, just before the opening of foreign affairs debate.

The house was thrown into uproar by the almost unprecedented scene. Cabinet ministers indignantly shouted at Shinwell, "Get out!" The laborite resumed his seat after administering the resounding slap.

A remark by Bower to which Shinwell apparently took exception sounded like "go to Poland," although what was meant was not clear.

U. S. INCOME TO FALL SHORT BY 100 MILLIONS

Revenues to Fall Below Early Budget Estimates Because of Recession, Claim.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Treasury statistics indicated today that federal income for the current fiscal year will fall at least $100,000,000 below budget estimates as a result of the business recession.

The deficit estimate, already increased $250,000,000 by an additional relief appropriation since President Roosevelt's January budget revision, will be undermined further by the indicated failure of income to meet expectations.

Because of the changed situation, the budget bureau may revise estimates within a month. A similar revision was issued last year in April when a slump in income tax payments upsct original budget calculations.

In January Mr. Roosevelt estimated total receipts for the 1938 year, ending June 30, at $6,320,513,000. But income in the first nine months amount to $4,819,688,409 or slightly more than 70 per cent of the anticipated total for the year. Ordinarily, approximately 80 per cent of the year's receipts are collected in the first nine months.

Must Get $1,401,000,000.

Between now and the end of June, the treasury must receive approximately $1,401,000,000 to fulfill the budget income estimate. Officials doubted that this could be done.

Excise tax receipts, which reflect current business activity more than any other levy, are decreasing. Customs receipts in the first nine months were more than $60,000,000 below the corresponding period last year.

Income taxes, however, appear to be holding close to estimates. In the first nine months, receipts from this source aggregated $1,995,073,343, leaving $697,000,000 to be collected during the final quarter.

The deficiency in exise taxes and customs receipts was estimated to cut down the total anticipated income by at least $100,000,000. Unless the economic slump is arrested soon, budget experts admitted the disparity might be even greater.

FOES PLAN LAST DITCH BATTLE

would leave it untouched in "streamlining" the government.

Rep. O'Connor (D) of New York, chairman of the rules committee and one of the "big three" of the house, refused to yield in the battle.

"The concessions haven't satisfied me," said O'Connor.

Other dissenting Democrats and Republicans expressed confidence that a popular revolt will defeat the bill on the final roll call.

Revises Audit System.

Major issues in the battle were the bill's provisions revising the government auditing system and substituting a one-man civil service administrator for the present bi-partisan commission.

Reps. Pettengill (D) of Indiana and Taber (R) of New York, were unchanged, with a comptroller-general appointed for a 15-year term as congress' "watchdog of the treasury."

Vinson, in charge of this section of the bill, contended that the house measure not only continues congressional control of the purse strings but improves the present system.

The fight against abolition of a bi-partisan civil service commission was led by Reps. Ramspeck (D) of Georgia and Edith Nourse Rogers (R) of Massachustetts, members of the house civil service committee. They feared that the change would inevitably inject politics into the civil service.

Chairman Cochran, of the reorganization committee, smilingly said the opposition "can talk as long as they want to." He said the bill will be passed "when the house gets ready."

"I have always thought it would pass," said Cochran.

Asked if he would agree to further concession he replied that "if you are trying a law suit, you don't say in advance just what your tactics will be."

Rep. Sweeney (D) of Ohio, while praising President Roosevelt's approval of the compromise leaving the bureau of education untouched, was not satisfied. he said:

"The public mind, in my opinion, rightly or wrongly, will interpret the action of congress in passing this bill, however amended or safeguarded, as an unwarranted delegation of power to the executive. Under the circumstances it will be mighty hard for members in the coming election to explain away this fear."

House leaders were hopeful that the week-end respite would cool frayed tempers of members and lead to more restrained debate during the remainder of the fight.

Promoted to Brigadier General

Brigadier General Karl Truesdell has a shoulder star affixed by Captain Edward Glavin during ceremonies at Governors Island, N. Y., where he was raised in rank. Truesdell, who, in 1901, reported as a buck private, is commander of the 16th infantry and post commander of Fort Jay.

STEEL RESUMES SLOW INCREASE

Miscellaneous Buyers Help to Boost Production Despite Slowness of Leaders.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — The Magazine Steel said today miscellaneous buyers of steel products are contributing sufficient tonnage to continue the slow rise of production despite absence from the market of the three leading consuming industries—automobiles, railroads and structural fabricators.

The publication said little immediate support was expected from the automobile industry and that builders have steel supplies "nearly sufficient for their needs."

A 10 per cent increase in general buying for March was reported with some steelmakers booking a few large orders attaining 20 per cent more than in February.

Bars proved the most active among heavier products while galvanized sheets led the lighter forms of steel.

Continued small increases in production rates, with minor reductions at two points, carried the national operating rate up 1 point last week to 36 per cent, the highest level since the second week in November , when it was 39 per cent.

Pittsburgh operators advanced 2 points to 32 per cent, Chicago 1 to 32.5, Youngstown 1 to 30, Cleveland 1.7 to 33.5, New England 2 to 20 and St. Louis 9 to 46.5.

Claims Home Not Modern Without Air Conditioning

Homes constructed today need air conditioning equipment for all-year comfort to make them modern in every sense, W. H. Stangle, assistant manager of home air conditioning activities at the Westinghouse plant, told 50 Mansfield contractors and builders at a meeting at the Westinghouse display room.

The company's new residential heating and air conditioning system was introduced at the session by Stangle, J. E. Hugo, sales promotion manager; George Park, of the merchandise advertising department, and H. F. Hildreth, dealer supervisor of the air conditioning department.

"Any house built today which is not designed and planned for all year air conditioning is obsolete before it is completed," Stangle said.

Disclosing the results of a recent survey of home building needs, Stangle asserted that "We found that every modern house needs controlled automatic heating, automatic air circulation, air cleaning and air humidification."

He added that every house requires careful planning for all-year air conditioning and pointed out that true air conditioning means heating, cleaning and circulating the air in winter and cooling and de-humidifying it in summer.

FINAL TAX BILL DRAFT READY

'Business Recovery' Measure Heads for Senate Action.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate finance committee wrote into final form today its tax revision measure, described by Chairman Harrison (D., Miss.) as a "business recovery bill."

In a radio address last night, Harrison bid for nationwide support of the committee's bill, which eliminates the undistributed profits tax recommended by the administration and approved by the house. Senate debate will begin Wednesday.

The committee changes, he said, have transformed the house-approved tax program into legislation which would melt frozen capital and point the way to an economic upturn.

ADMIRERS DEAD, GIRL WOUNDED

Student Who Had Marriage License, Blamed In Shooting.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. — (UP) —Grace Carter, 17, of Clinton fought for life in a hospital today after her youthful sweetheart fired four shots into her body, killed her admirer and finally took his own life.

Three bullets struck her near the left shoulder and one crashed through her wrist when Carmontew, 21-year-old student who had obtained a license to marry her, found her with a young New York pianist at her home in Clinton, N. C.

The musician, Rudolph Smoalk, died a few hours after the shooting.

BLAMES SUICIDE ON NLRB RULING

Manufacturer's Widow Says Death Followed Order From Board.

GRAND HAVEN, Mich.—(UNS)—Manufacturer Arthur Colten, 45, was dead today, a suicide 24 hours after he received notice of an adverse national labor relations board hearing.

His widow told police she believed the ruling, coming after a year of labor trouble at Colten's Kiddie Kover Manufacturing company, caused the suicide. Colten shot himself.

The ruling ordered Colten to dissolve the Kiddie Kover Employes association and re-hire all discharged strikers.

GAS BLAMED

Sewage Plant Explosion at Marion Injures Workman.

MARION—(UNS)—Gasoline seepage from a bulk station was given today as the cause of a violent explosion touched off when a sewage treatment plant employe struck a match while making an examination. The worker, M. H. Burgraff, 45, was slightly injured and several hundred feet of large sewer pipe was damaged.

patches said, virtually the entire city was occupied, although some points of resistance remained, and the insurgent troops fanned out, taking villages on either side of the Barcelona highway just east of Lerida.

Seek to Slow Advance.

The militia still waged guerrilla warfare against the insurgent advance guard, striving to slow the advance until the new government line of defense could be reinforced, between Balaguer and Borfas, cutting the highway about 12 miles to the east.

The exodus to France of government refugees, military and civilian alike, persisted. Frontier officials said 5,440 militiamen had arrived at Bagneres De Luchon and been repatriated, 258 of them to insurgent Spain via Hendays, and the others to Catalonia via Cebere.

Several thousand civilians were sent to concentration camps in the interior.

Madrid, formerly the government capital, was shelled in an hour and 25-minute bombardment, the worst of the war. Between 40 and 50 persons were killed, perhaps more.

About 2,000 shells fell into the city.

The office building housing the Associated Press bureau was hit, but damage was slight.

Barcelona, the provisional capital, remained calm in the face of the insurgent offensive. Food became scarce, but the general situation was not desperate.

TIDES WASHING MONEY TO SHORE

Boston Harbor Scene of 'Gold Rush,' Hundreds Comb Beach.

WINTHROP, Mass. —(UNS)— A modern "gold rush" was here today.

Hundreds of men, women and children combed the beach near the Winthrop Yacht club for currency. To date $250 has been washed up by the tides of Boston harbor.

Where the money comes from is a mystery. Two $20 gold certificates and twenty-one $10 silver notes made up the bonanza. The bills were found on the sand and floating in the water off shore.

COLUMBUS —(UNS)— What was described by Supt. F. L. Kaiser as the worst fire during his 31 years as head of the institution was estimated today to have damaged the state institution for the feeble minded to the extent of $20,000.

Three hundred child inmates in a dormitory adjoining the power plant which was swept by the flames were prepared to leave the building, but fast work by firemen made evacuation unnecessary.

5. Further consideration of desirability of resuming "pump priming" spending on a big scale or resorting to industrial subsidies in an effort to check recession.

Equally pressing is the necessity of decisions in the Mexican seizure of American-owned oil properties, which may be vital to his "good neighbor" foreign policy, and whether the administration shall accept the senate finance committee's version of a "business recovery" tax bill.

So-called big spenders in the New Deal organization are pressing the president for more direct assistance to business. There are reports that he has given way before their pressure.

In any event administration leaders believe now that the unemployment problem was tremendously under estimated three months ago and that the bill next year will be $2,000,000,000 or more.

MEL KOONTZ—FAMOUS HOLLYWOOD ANIMAL TAMER—WRESTLES WITH A FULL-GROWN LION!

HERE'S MEL KOONTZ alone in the cage with four hundred and fifty pounds of lion. The huge lion crouches—then springs straight at Koontz. Nerves cool as ice, Mel meets the charge head on. Man and lion clinch. Onlookers feel their nerves grow tense. But Mel is master of the beast. No doubt about his nerves being healthy! And, as Mel points out, one big difference in Camels has to do with healthy nerves. Mel says: "No matter how many I smoke, Camels don't frazzle my nerves."

"I'll say it makes a difference to me what cigarette I smoke"

says MEL KOONTZ to PENN PHILLIPS

"I guess you have to be particular about your cigarette, Mel. I've often wondered if Camels are different from other kinds?"

"Take it from me, Penn, any one-cigarette's-as-good-as-another talk is the bunk. There are a lot of angles to consider in smoking. Camel is the cigarette I know really agrees with me on all counts. My hat's off to 'em for real, natural mildness—the kind that doesn't get my nerves ragged—or make my throat raspy."

PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS

THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

AFTER MEL KOONTZ had been schooling tigers for a new movie, Penn Phillips got to talking with him on the difference between cigarettes. Koontz gives his personal slant on the question, above. And millions of other men and women find what they want in Camels. One smoker tells another: "Camels agree with me—all around!"

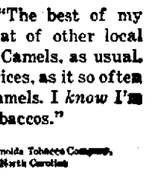
Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER... "Camels agree with me"

"WE CHOOSE CAMELS FOR OUR OWN SMOKING. WE KNOW TOBACCO"

—SAY THESE TOBACCO PLANTERS



"I know the kind of tobacco used for making various cigarettes," says Mr. Beckham Wright, who has spent 19 years growing tobacco—knows it from the ground up. "Camel got my choice grades last year—and many years back," he adds. "I'm talking facts when I say Camels are made from MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS."

Mr. George Crumbaugh, another well-known planter, had a fine tobacco crop last year. "My best yet," he says. "And the Camel people bought all the choice lots—paid me more than I ever got before too. Naturally, Camel's the cigarette I smoke myself. Fact is, most planters favor Camels. So I know that Camels use finer tobaccos."

"I've grown over 87,000 pounds of tobacco in the past five years," says this successful planter, Mr. Cecil White, of Danville, Kentucky. "The best of my last crop, and that of other local planters, went to Camels, as usual. And at the best prices, as it so often does. I stick to Camels. I know I'm smoking choice tobaccos."

MONDAY, APRIL 4, 1938.

It seems incredible that anything should go wrong with a civilization which has such wonderful bridge and golf players.

"Let's Look Around" In Mansfield.

RETURNING from a motor trip extending into eight states and covering 5,000 miles, during which many cities were visited and conditions observed in widely varying sections of the country, it is a pleasant experience to again have a look around in "the home town"—with possibly even a better understanding of why Mansfield has come to be so highly regarded among Ohio cities.

Recognized as a "manufacturing" city, located in an excellent agricultural section of Ohio, Mansfield has been fortunate in its slow growth and in its diversification of industries—having thus escaped the plight of a number of cities that grew too fast and of others that stagnated through absence of natural advantages or lack of the community spirit essential to successful development of any city.

Noting developments of the past few weeks, it can be readily recognized that leadership of Mansfield thought is moving steadily and persistently toward the furtherance of a long-range program of progress not only along lines intended to give continued encouragement to industrial advancement but also looking to increased recreational facilities; improved traffic conditions; better housing and sanitation in some sections of the city; more adequate water supply and a more comprehensive plan of park improvement and beautification in general.

It will be observed that in every city where consistent progress has been made, or where some outstanding attraction has been developed, there has been evidenced not only a spirit of community co-operation but also an inclination of a large majority of residents to do their individual share in keeping their own premises neat and clean in appearance and in cultivating the kinds of flowers and shrubbery in their yards that fit in with some general ideas adopted by the community as a whole.

Along this line it may be observed that Mansfield garden clubs, and all persons interested in city beautification, enjoy a fine field of opportunity for beneficial activity, the result of which could quickly be made evident and which would serve to make this an even more delightful city in which to live.

And right now, by the way, is the season when it should be possible to arouse liveliest public interest in this particular subject.

Non-Interference Policy.

HERBERT HOOVER, reporting to America after looking Europe over, reminds us that we have to get along with other nations, whether we approve of them or not.

"If the world is to keep the peace," he says, "then we must keep peace with the dictatorships as well as with popular governments. The forms of government which other people pass through in working out their destinies is not our business."

Of course we should not interfere with the governments, we don't like. There is no reason, however, why we should not say among ourselves what we dislike about them, and why. In fact, it is important to do this, so that we may understand clearly what political conditions are in foreign countries, what the differences are between varying forms and theories of government and economics, and what we must do at home to safeguard our chosen system.

It is only by comparison and contrast that individuals or nations can understand themselves and choose wisely their own modes of life.

Fun With Questionnaires.

THERE was a tendency to laugh at the Columbia University senior students who answered the annual questionnaire with no apparent deference to the stock market, depression, world war scares or any of the other current matters that so alarm their elders. The Columbian Year Book shows the 1938 senior to be a rather normal individual.

He likes steak and girls and tennis and football. His favorite movie stars, magazines, actors and books are the favorites of a good many individuals outside collegiate halls. He differs from students of earlier days in his preference for milk over beer as a beverage. He is more optimistic than he may be a few years hence in his belief that he will be making $5,000 a year when he has been out of college five years. His favorite composers are Beethoven and Wagner, he says, but he is not narrow-minded on the subject and enjoys popular music, too.

This composite senior doesn't sound very original, but it may be suspected he answers questionnaires with his fingers crossed.

Another Russian Purge.

IT IS TREASON to fail in a Russian job. It is treason to make a mistake. The Soviet regime requires perfection, and anything less calls for a drum-head trial and a firing squad.

This seems to be a reasonable interpretation of the endless series of executions under the dictatorship of Stalin. The latest example revealed to the outer world is the "purge" demanded by the government among the men in charge of a fleet of merchant ships and ice breakers in Arctic waters. Some of the vessels were damaged, and the troubles are blamed on the Northern Sea Route administration headed by the polar hero, Dr. Schmidt. He and his associates may be shot because vessels for which they were responsible were caught in the ice last year.

If Stalin and his assistants are going to keep on killing executives for mistakes of judgment, the great Soviet experiment is doomed. Such a policy, creating fear, can only make good men jittery and lead to more mistakes—and to concealment of mistakes instead of acknowledging them and learning from them.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

ONE OF THE paradoxes of the present depression concerns government spending. Critics of the administration have been pounding away at government spending. But it is largely because the government has not been spending that we have deflation.

What the critics could say would be that we have found no means of maintaining a participation in purchasing power by a large part of the population—to eliminate government aid. But the critics fear that, too—as leading to socialism.

Thus, there is a stalemate, with both major political parties leaning toward the same dead center more closely than they imagine.

There may be such a thing that the opposing political candidates in the 1940 presidential election may declare for the same principles. Politicians and commentators have discussed that, in a puzzled sort of manner. If politics at the moment were stripped of its falsehoods and superstitions and calumnies, the problem would be seen in its true socio-economic aspect. And that is giving political leaders the shivers. Try to interview them.

* * *

DOES F. D. R. "HESITATE?"

Original New Dealers have expressed wonderment over the president's recent hesitancy on measures in which he places most faith—a hesitancy that cripples them, then is broken with sharp, sudden thrusts that, although they may be popular with the people, consolidate congressional opposition.

It made good newspaper news when the president said passage of the re-organization bill by the senate proved that the senate "cannot be purchased by organized telegrams based on direct misrepresentation." But that statement aroused to a white-heat fury senatorial opponents of the measure. Yet the president of the United States did not begin to use the degree of vitriolic language used against him or his measure, particularly in a radio speech by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, and by senators themselves. And it was true, there was an organized telegraph opposition.

A president, being human, naturally sometimes "boils over" himself—but perhaps a president must be immune to that, if any human being can be.

Then, two days later, the president came back with a statement in letter form that was far more telling. In this he remarked that "the opposition has planted bogies under every bed."

Citing examples, Mr. Roosevelt added:

"I cite these merely as examples of a score of equally silly nightmares conjured up at the instigation of either those who would restore the government to those who owned it between 1921 and 1933, or those who for some reason or another seek deliberately to wreck the present administration of the United States."

That was what the presidential advisers evidently have been trying to have him say for some time. It is "original New Deal" vintage.

* * *

F. D. R.'S POWER

Perhaps President Roosevelt is saving his thunder for still larger things. He will try to put through many reforms in the 1939 congress. It will be literally his last chance—unless he will be "drafted" for a third term.

The president undoubtedly believes that the electorate will register in the 1938 elections a continued preference for New Deal reforms. If New Deal candidates win in the 1938 elections, and Old Guarders fall by the wayside, or if neither side gains, the president will accept the result as a renewed mandate.

His opponents realize the same. Their present task is to discredit the president. "Depression, dictator, debt, jobless, fear, unstable."

The president may have a desire to let them expend their voice now. The supreme court is upholding his laws as just, the turn of the business tide may be at hand, and everybody can say or do what he pleases concerning this government of ours, and we are at peace—thus, will the people believe this dictator cry?

WASHINGTON CHERRY FESTIVAL

How Valuable Is a 45,000-Ton Battleship?

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—State department folk sense a deal of significance in Paris' intimations that France will make no start on a superbattleship building program, even if the United States and Britain do, unless Germany and Italy enter the race.

The conclusion is obvious that the French have no doubt of the genuineness and permanency of Uncle Sam's and John Bull's good will toward themselves. Let these two expand their respective navies to their heart's content; France will do no worrying. Indeed, she counts somewhat upon Britain as a fighting ally in the event of actual hostilities.

Of Germany and Italy, however, she is suspicious.

* * *

HOW BIG ?

Not more than a couple of generations ago a vessel of 10,000 tons was considered a monster. Today 35,000 tons is considered the first-class battleship standard. Just after the war the United States was engaged in the construction of 43,500-ton craft. Then came the 'Washington arms agreement" of 1922, which fixed 35,000 as the maximum, and Uncle Sam scrapped his 43,500-tonners, at enormous loss.

Later followed a 1926 dicker, reestablishing the 35,000-ton basis, but including what was known as the "escalator clause," under which, if any one of the signatories exceeded 35,000 tons, it was according to Hoyle for the others to do also.

* * *

JAPAN'S STAND

Japan, among others, did not indorse this 1936 bargain.

It is now reported that she is building some 45,000-tonners. One or two, maybe—they cost high into the millions apiece, and Japan's resources are limited.

Tokio was diplomatically asked whether this was true, and the answer was that this was none of the rest of the world's business. It was a justifiable answer considering that Japan never o. k.'d the 1936 campact. Still, it has started Uncle Sam and John Bull upon the 45,000-ton warpath.

* * *

WHY A BIG SHIP?

How much good is a 45,000-tonner versus a 35-000-tonner or a lesser vessel?

Well, a 45,000-tonner can throw a shot from a gun so big that it would tip a 20,000-tonner overboard with its recoil, and joggle a 35,000-tonner. It can throw it farther, with its 18-inch gun, than any thrown by a 35,000-tonner's 16-inch artillery.

But the smaller the gun's caliber, experts say, the better the chance that it will make a bull's eye.

* * *

CANAL HANDICAP

A 45,000-tonner might be so constructed as to do it, but not in such fashion as to have any value otherwise—assuredly not so as to have any military use after worming through the canal's locks and other intricities.

The canal has certain weaknesses to Uncle Sam, certainly.

Still, even if Uncle Samuel were blocked that way, what of it?

Could he not take care of Japan, on one side, and any imaginable European aggression from the eastward?

* * *

A DOUBTFUL WEAPON

A 45,000-tonner relatively must be slow, too.

Of course, it can lick a cruiser, or a squadron of them, but it cannot keep up with a cruiser fleet's activities.

In short, the 45,000-tonner is a doubtful weapon.

The Thinning Ranks of the Elder Statesmen

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — So thinned out are the ranks of elder statesmen in this country that if Chief Justice Hughes should resign from the Supreme Court now he probably could have the chairmanship of the group.

In reality there is no such thing as a chairmanship of the elder statesmen but it would be hard to point to any of the remaining senior statesmen who could present such credentials.

All this develops, of course, out of the death of Colonel House, whose rocket-like career during President Wilson's regime gave him a high rank in history, although in just what capacity will be known only a century from now.

Within the past year or so death has taken such figures as Newton D. Baker, wartime Secretary of War; Elihu Root, Senator, Secretary of War and Secretary of State, and now House. Among those remaining are Bernard Baruch, chairman of the War Industries board in 1917-18; President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia — and Hughes. Others could be named, but we have to stop sometime.

Hughes, on a showdown, could point to service as Secretary of State; two periods on the Supreme Court, the second as Chief Justice; governorship of New York; and a presidential nomination.

* * *

SOUGHT PEACE

Doubtless Hughes would have his critics, and House had his. Even when House died there were some here who would not comment at all upon the event. Propriety prevented their saying anything bad about him and they would not be caught saying anything good.

House "fit and bled" trying to lead the United States into the League of Nations. He said recently in an interview that he wrote the first draft of the League, after discussing it generally with President Wilson. Both he and Wilson were ailing at the time they returned from France to present this new co-operative peace move to the United States. Besides that, Wilson had strangely cooled toward House.

It was a sample of the disunion of forces which peace-planning societies experienced so often afterward that House, about two years ago, set out to do something about it, although he then was 77 years old.

He brought about a meeting of himself, President Butler of Columbia, Newton D. Baker, and Senators Thomas of Utah and Pope of Idaho. The Senate had just rejected a further proposal for U. S. adherence to the World court. The five were virtually unanimous in the opinion that failure of peace organizations in the country to work together was responsible for defeat of World court adherence.

* * *

MONUMENT TO HOUSE

Subsequently representatives of the many peace organizations were called to a general conference out of which was developed a sort of peace "chamber of commerce." It has been functioning since. House was a sort of patron saint, although he did not attend the conference at which it was formed.

All is not peace, even among the peace societies. They have divergent views on many things but the bulk of them look to a greater participation by the United States in world affairs as the real hope for peace. They got together sufficiently a week or so to agree to stump the country for Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade program. It is a sort of first stone in a monument they will try to build for House.

Character or Personality?

SOMEBODY SAID: "Personality is what you appear to be, Character is what you are."

I do not know who said that, although something in the back of memory suggests it was Elbert Hubbard . . . He had a great gift for sudden illumination, he could say such things easily. But whether it was he or some other wise man who said that, it matters little. It is true that personality is what we seem, and character is what we are—and what we do.

You may know a man who has a "charming" personality. He twists others around his little finger. He smiles and they do his bidding . . . Beneath that smooth surface you know that he is weak, unstable, shifting. He forgets you as soon as his back is turned. His promises mean nothing. He will let you down. He is not your friend.

You may know another man whose personality is difficult. He is gruff, stubborn, a rough diamond, crotchetty . . . Strangers shy away from him, he makes friends slowly, he has no gift for meeting other human beings . . . He is a doctor and a good one, but he has few patients. He is a clever lawyer, but he cannot go into court because he antagonizes judge and jury . . . Underneath, however, he is solid, loyal, decent and true.

I am not suggesting that the man with the "charming" personality is always all-surface, or that the man with the bad personality is always a fine human being under his unpleasant surface . . . Often both personality and character coincide. The man with the ingratiating personality may have a character of which it is the reflection. And the mean personality may be an indication of inner cruelties.

Nevertheless, personality IS what we seem and character IS what we are . . . I am charming, but worthless. I am cranky, but dependable. I have a fine personality and a fine character. I have a terrible personality and a terrible character. You can take your choice.

Young America Says—

Earn Your Own Security.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

"SOCIAL SECURITY." We accept that without comment these days. Within a few short months we have reversed our national policy—have come to feel that it's up to the nation to provide us with safety and the makings of success, instead of each individual assuming such responsibility for himself.

But there are some who still don't agree with this policy . . . who still hold the old Yankee faith that a man must fight for his own safety.

It's true that times have changed and that there are more savage perils in our modern world than prowling Indians and wild bears, flood, frost and fever. BUT HAS THE SPIRITUAL LAW CHANGED . . . IS OR ISN'T "SECURITY" EACH MAN'S PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY?

Thelma Stolworthy of San Francisco, Calif., believes that IT IS. And says so without any maybes.

"Dear Elsie—

"I have a bone to pick with my fellow citizens—and I don't mean maybe! It's over this much-used, much-abused word, 'SECURITY.' Everyone looking for Security with a capital S . . . demanding it . . . whining because you don't get it . . . working up a big case of self-pity—

"BUT WHAT ARE WE DOING TO SECURE SECURITY FOR OURSELVES? NOT A DAGGONE THING! FOR SHAME!

"Did our pioneering ancestors look to presidents or politicians for personal security? Good night—No! They got out and worked and sweated and saved and created their own security. For they knew, and wisely, that there is no set pattern for security . . . no man can give it to another . . . each man must make it for himself.

"But today we modern Americans, with all the makings in our hands, sit back on our haunches and howl for some fairy godmother to make us safe and happy. But what does security really mean? The root word of security is 'SECURE' . . . which, in Americanese means—'GO GET!' So let's snap out of our shameless parasitism and 'GO GET' some Self-Earned Security, and diminish this dangerously increasing horde of neurotic, self-pitying L-O-A-F-E-R-S."

Stout stuff, lady, and many an old-time American will cheer you for your courage.

Now comes an equally startling suggestion from Hilton Guenther of Laingsburg, Mich. . . .

"SHOULD CONDEMNED CRIMINALS BE USED AS HUMAN GUINEA PIGS?" Says he—

"The great scientists who are constantly trying to save human life need men to experiment on in order to discover cures for our dreadful diseases. WHY NOT LET FIENDISH KILLERS PARTLY ATONE FOR THEIR WRONG TO SOCIETY BY LETTING THEIR BODIES BE USED FOR EXPERIMENTAL PURPOSES?

"This idea may seem shocking and cruel but you may be sure that no scientist would be as cruel as the killer himself was.

"For instance—A few months ago in one of our large cities a young mother was killed. Her husband had left for work and she was at home alone with her year-old baby. She had washed the breakfast dishes and was preparing to do her other housework when she heard a knock at the door. Little knowing the fate in store for her, she opened the door. The beast pushed his way into the house and slammed the door behind him. Criminal assault and a fractured skull was the result. She died a few hours later, but not before she had identified her assailant, who later was sentenced to die in the electric chair.

"A motherless son, a grieved father—both assets to America; the mother, a departed asset from this world; the fiend who killed her, a liability. A terrible crime, indeed! And it's almost as bad, that this fiend cannot be used for medical experimentation.

"Almost annually some doctor discovers a serum to combat some disease, but has no one to test it on. So what? He uses himself, and, often, with fatal results. So a savior of human lives dies, and these useless rats who murder their fellow men are sentenced to die by the most humane method known. Why should this be?"

Hilton Guenther—Age 20,
R. F. D. 1, Laingsburg, Mich.
($10 Prize Winner)

That idea, lad, will start many an argument, for human life, even at its worst, is still a sacred thing...Yet, if we under the law, assume the right to TAKE life in atonement, WHY SHOULD WE SHRINK FROM USING LIFE IN A FAR MORE USEFUL WAY? Think it over, and let's hear your answer.

* * *

And here's a happy note on which to end. Were you one of "The Oldsters" who recently gave Young America a hand in that wonderful "Grown-Up" page? If so, little Jane Conway of Syracause, N. Y., has a sweetly grateful word for you.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"We 'Youngsters' certainly owe a big vote of thanks to those of our parents who so admirably defended us in their splendid letters which were recently published in your section. The younger generation has been so generally persecuted of late that this unexpected turn of events was indeed a welcome diversion.

"Thanks be to God there are still some fair-minded creatures in our midst who realize that the youth of America are not the sniveling, week-kneed imbeciles that the majority of the 'Oldsters' have branded them."

Health Advice

The Progress Surgery Has Made.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

RECENTLY I commented on the common fear of operations and hospitals. Fortunately, the dread of being operated upon is less than it used to be. Yet, there are many who still dread the "knife", and in consequence refuse to submit to necessary surgery.

The art of surgery is not a new one by any means. It dates back to earliest times. I have been greatly interested in the many surgical instruments found in the ruins of Pompeii and exhibited in Italian museums. In Cairo, too, I saw even older reminders of the surgeon's art. Some of these instruments are similar in shape and form to the ones used by modern operators.

The early Romans were primarily interested in the art of surgery as a means of saving the lives of valiant warriors. Little attention was given to the welfare of the average citizen. During the Middle Ages surgery began to make some strides.

For a time surgery was practiced by a group or clan known as the "traveling barbers". They knew little, even of such medical science as then existed. They were ignorant, possessing little knowledge of anatomy and less of disease.

The work of Ambrose Pare, John Hunter Lister, Louis Pasteur and others made it possible to improve the methods of surgery. The discovery of anesthesia gave surgery its first real chance to progress.

Today, the doctor who specializes in surgery has been trained for years. In most instances he has been apprenticed to an older surgeon. In all the large cities postgraduate training is provided for men interested in surgery.

The determination that an operation is needed is not reached in any haphazard or careless manner. Every detail is taken into consideration. Before he will operate the surgeon insists upon knowing the exact state of your heart, kidneys, liver, blood pressure and every other factor that may have a bearing upon your safety.

Even in emergency operations precautions are taken. Consequently, the operation is performed with a minimum of risk to the patient. This attention eliminates unnecessary discomfort and lessens the dangers.

Bear in mind that if your doctor suggests an operation he believes it is for your benefit. If there is any doubt, he will refer you to someone else for an opinion. Surgery is no longer experimental, nor is it involved in guess work or speculation. It has approached the state of an exact science.

BROTHERS' KEEPERS?

He asked assistance and he begged
Not to be "charity."
And so I took my valued time,
Work hunted valiantly.

One who hunts so must find reward—
At last a job for him;
The gratitude he gave, the smile
Made brightest stars seem dim.

Why can we not, each one of us,
To just one fellow man,
Who's unemployed, stretch out a hand?
I say we can, we can.

We are our brothers' keepers. If
Each one, one jobless would
Look after, we could lift this dark.
I say we could, we could.

SYNOPSIS

Gay Hardwicke, marooned in London with her Aunt Agatha while her parents are in Madeira defending a real estate lawsuit which may impoverish the family, has to answer the telephone five flights down in the midst of a shampoo. It is Marcia Thrale, who is sailing the next day to visit her Uncle George in Java. Gay's old schoolmate asks her to come to see her. Marcia arrives in a roundabout way at the fact that her sister Sylvia, who a year ago married the wealthy and much older Sir Francis Colesborough, is in "another jam" and wants to see Gay. Remembering their school days when it was she, not Marcia, who got Sylvia out of her many jams, Gay says she doesn't care if Marcia is sailing the next day, she is not going to take over Sylvia's troubles. She rushes from Marcia's rooms but meets Sylvia in the corridor. Trapped, Gay returns with the blond and very attractive Sylvia to find Marcia absent. Another round about conversation reveals that there is no man connected with the jam. Sylvia produces two strips of paper evidently torn from newspapers on which, pencilled in blue, were "Same place. Same time. Same money" and "Tomorrow without fail or your husband will know." When Gay says Sylvia must tell her husband whatever the trouble is, Sylvia pleads with her not to tell him.

CHAPTER III

Gay came over to Sylvia and put her back in her chair.

"Sit down," she said, "and don't be an ass. To begin with, I don't know anything to tell, and to go on with—"

Sylvia clutched at her wrist. "You mustn't tell Francis! If I could tell him, I wouldn't have come to you. Promise me you won't ever tell."

"I won't promise," said Gay soberly, "but I won't tell." She removed her wrist and stood back again. "The question is, are you going to tell me. Because if you're not, I'll be getting along."

The faint, lovely color returned to Sylvia's cheek. She drew a long breath and sat back.

"Oh, darling, don't go! I want to tell you."

"Then go on with it," said Gay.

Sylvia looked up, and down again.

"It's so difficult. You see, one of the reasons I can't tell Francis is that he said I was never, never, never to play cards for money. They play a lot, you know, in his set, and the points are dreadfully high, and he said I wasn't to ever, because—well, it was after he'd been my partner one night at contract and we lost eight hundred pounds, and he said he wasn't a millionaire, and even if he were he couldn't bear the strain, and a lot of things like that."

* * *

Gay felt some sympathy for Francis Colesborough. She had played cards with Sylvia at school.

"Did you revoke?" she enquired with interest.

Sylvia gazed at her mournfully. "I expect so—I generally do. I never can remember what it is exactly, but that is one of the things he said I'd done. So he said I wasn't to play again."

"And you did?"

"Not bridge—baccarat."

"And how much did you lose?" It went without saying that Sylvia had lost.

"About five hundred pounds," said Sylvia in a small, terrified voice—Sylvia, who though now the wife of the rich Sir Francis Colesborough and mistress of Cole Lester, had spent 21 years as penniless Sylvia Thrale with a widowed mother whose tiny pension had only just sufficed to feed and clothe herself and her two daughters. Relations had most unwillingly paid the school bills. Sylvia had therefore always heard a great deal about money — bills and the lack of money to pay them with; bills and the sordid necessity of paying them; bills and the horrid things that might happen to you if you didn't pay them. All this had been impressed upon her in the nursery.

"What!" said Gay. And then, "But you'll have to tell Francis. He's the only person who can help you to pay five hundred pounds."

Sylvia shook her head. "Oh, no, he isn't—that's just it."

Long practice enabled Gay to snatch meaning from this remark. "You mean some one else gave you the money, and that's why you can't tell Francis?"

"Only half," said Sylvia, accepting this interpretation.

"This blue pencil creature?"

"I don't know."

Gay stamped her foot. "You don't know who gave you the money?"

"No, darling."

A kind of furious calm possessed Gay.

"Sylvia, if you don't tell me the whole thing right away, I'm off. Begin at the beginning and go right on to the end. You lost five hundred pounds at baccarat. Now begin there!"

The line came again on Sylvia's forehead.

"Some one rang me up—"

"When?"

"Last week-end—last Saturday—because we were going down to stay with the Wessex-Gardners. At least, I was going, and Francis was going to come if he could, and he did, only rather late for dinner—we were half through the fish."

Gay broke in. "Sylly, for goodness sake—"

Sylvia stared in surprise. "So I know it was Saturday. And the bell rang while I was dressing, so it must have been about 5 o'clock.

"Good girl! Go on—keep on going on! Some one rang you up—"

"Yes. They said—"

"Who said?"

"Well, it was a man—and he said—he asked if I would like to earn two hundred pounds?"

"Earn two hundred pounds?"

"That's what he said. And I said of course, so then he told me how."

* * *

A feeling of the blackest dismay came creeping into Gay's mind. It was like ink seeping into blotting-paper. What on earth had Sylvia done?

"What did he tell you?" she said.

"How to do it," said Sylvia. "It was quite easy really."

"What did you do?" said Gay. Her mind felt perfectly blank.

Sylvia was looking quite pleased.

"I just waited till he'd gone along to his bath. Of course he'd left his keys on the dressing-table—men always do—and the paper was in his despatch-box, just like the man said it would be, so I got it quite easily."

"Sylvia—what are you talking about? Francis—you took a paper out of Francis' despatch-box?"

"Oh, no," said Sylvia in a tone of surprise, "not Francis."

Gay wouldn't have believed that she could feel worse, but she did.

"You stole a paper from some one else. If it wasn't Francis, who was it?"

"The Home Secretary man—at least, I think that's what he is. He's quite nice-looking, but he's got such an ugly name—Biffington — Buffington — Billington — one of those names you know."

"I suppose you mean Mr. Lushington?"

Sylvia brightened. "Darling, you're so clever about names. Yes, Lushington. And his wife's sister is married to Binks."

"Binks?"

"Binks Wessex-Gardner—he is Buffalo's brother. They were all staying with the Wessex-Gardners, and so were we. Darling, they've got the most lovely place. And you never saw anything like her clothes——"

"What was this piece of paper you stole?" said Gay.

Sylvia winced. "Oh, that's a horrid word!"

"It's a horrid thing. What paper was it?"

Sylvia stared. "I haven't the least idea."

"What did it look like? You must know that."

"Oh, yes, he told me. He said it would be a sort of list on a piece of paper—what do they call that big sort of paper?"

Gay's eyes danced for a moment. Do you mean foolscap?"

"Yes, that's it! And there wasn't any printing on it—just a lot of writing and a list of names—in one of those long envelopes. And he said I was to take the envelope just as it was, after I'd looked inside to see if it was the right one, and he said I was to put a plain envelope there instead."

Gay gave a horrified gasp—"Sylvia!" You put a plain envelope there instead?"

Sylvia nodded. "Yes, he told me to—he said to take one off Francis' table, and he told me what size, and he said to put some paper inside it to make it look all right, and I did."

"Sylvia—you said you had to look inside the envelope you took to make sure it was the right one?"

"Yes, and I did. I was ever so quick."

"What were you to look for?"

Sylvia's white brow wrinkled. "I keep forgetting the word—such a funny one—something to do with shoes—those French wooden things——"

"Sabots?"

Sylvia's brow relaxed. "Yes, that was it—that's what I had to look for. He said it would be there, right on top, and it was Sabotage."

"What did you do with it?" said Gay in a tired voice.

"I did exactly what he said. I didn't make any mistakes. I put the envelope in my bag. And after dinner we were in the winter garden and they were playing cards, and what I was to do was to walk down the drive and keep close to the bushes on the left, so I did. I had a fur wrap of course, and when I got about halfway down some one flashed a light on me and I stopped, and I said, 'Who is it?' as he had told me to, so as to be quite sure of not making a mistake and giving it to the wrong person. And he said, 'Mr. Zero', as he said he would so then I gave him the envelope."

"Did you see him?"

Sylvia shook her head. "Oh, no,—it was dark. Besides, he didn't come out of the bushes. He just put out a hand and took the envelope. And then gave me another with the money in it, and I ran back as fast as I could."

Gay still had the two pieces of newspapers in her left hand She looked at them now, her mind quite dark, quite helpless. "Same time—same place—same money—" She read the words aloud.

"What does it mean?" she said

"It means he wants some more papers," said Sylvia.

'WILDLIFE WEEK' SET IN SCHOOLS

Miller Urges Conservation Observance Beginning on April 18.

Supt. W. L. Miller today had designated the week of April 18 as "Wildlife Restoration Week" in Mansfield schools.

Principals of the city's schools have been asked to give special recognition to the importance of conservation and restoration of natural resources during that week, Miller said.

Programs by pupils and classroom discussions will include suggestions for protecting song and game birds, wild flowers and animals. A number of the schools will sponsor tree-planting ceremonies, it was said.

The observance, approved by the state department of education, will be held in co-operation with a conservation campaign launched recently by the National Wildlife Federation, which distributed wildlife stamps at one cent each to finance a restoration program.

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Monday, April 4. "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind" (II Timothy 1:7). Read Mark 4:35-40.

The human body can suffer excruciating pain. But, somehow, with the help of the mind, it can bear that pain. We shall agree that the human mind can suffer pains greater than those of the body, and that in this extremity the body can do little to help the mind. "The tempest in my mind doth make all else seem calm." The problem of evil is most acutely stated when we meet it as fear, sorrow, shame, regret, remorse.

I remember standing long ago on a ledge of rocks looking out over a wild storm at sea. It seemed to me the worst storm I had ever seen. There was an old coastwise sailor beside me, and I hazarded to him my measure of the elements. "Oh, no," he said, "this isn't much of a storm. It's nothing to some storms I've seen along this coast. It'll soon be blown over and blown out." When I looked out to sea again, the storm had already begun to go down.

This is not the original truth intended by the story of stilling of the storm. It is, however, a permanent truth which any one of us can verify for himself as he looks out over his "sea of troubles."

Prayer: Almighty God, whose ways and works are peace, vouchsafe unto us in the midst of our many tribulations the sovereign power of a quiet mind: through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Spring Menus Should Be Tempting

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
Home Service Department of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

Styles in foods, like styles in clothing, change with the seasons, and with foods we anticipate the seasons just as we do with dress. With the promise of spring in the air, appetites are apt to be capricious, and must be tempted with new and appetizing dishes. We tire of heavy winter foods just as we do of heavy winter clothes and seek change and variety.

Spring food should be light, dainty and unusual and yet it must be substantial and wholesome, for the needs of the body must be met now as at other times. As the season advances and fresh foods become available at more reasonable prices, menu and party planning will be much simplified. In the meantime, the refrigerator will aid with the special problem of meals and refreshments for party serving as well as with daily food problems.

The menu and recipes which follow, while appropriate for any time of the year, have been especially planned for spring.

Fruit Cup
Deviled Mushrooms—Baked Idaho Potatoes
Bowl O'Green Salad With Green Pepper Mayonnaise
Carmel Strawberry Shortcake

Deviled Mushrooms.

Mushrooms, of course, are never very expensive and they can be prepared in such a way that a few will serve many. There really won't be a strain on the budget.

12 unpeeled, deep cupped, mushrooms
Mushroom stems, chopped fine
Bread or cracker crumbs, ground fine
¼ oz. jar deviled ham
4 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon onion, chopped fine

Wash mushrooms. Remove stems and chop fine; and to this add an equal amount of bread or cracker crumbs, then deviled ham, salt, onion and melted butter. Mix well together. Pile mixture into mushroom cups. Place on a well buttered baking-pan and put into moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes before time to serve. Serve three to a helping.

Salad Bowl.

More and more hostesses are surprising their dinner guests with a delicious salad served in a salad bowl. This one was made from odds and ends I had in the refrigerator. Maybe yours will yield a still different combination, but methinks this concoction is one you will like.

½ head lettuce, small size and
½ bunch Romaine, broken into pieces or head lettuce, medium size
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup green pepper, diced
1 tomato, cut in sections
6 scallions, sliced, or
1 onion (4 tbsp.) chopped fine
Mayonnaise*

Rub bowl in which salad is to be mixed with cut-side of clove of garlic. Just before serving combine crisp salad greens and vegetables with mayonnaise in salad bowl.

*Appetizer Mayonnaise.

⅓ cup Mayonnaise
⅔ cup French Dressing
Clove of garlic

Rub bowl in which dressing is to be mixed with cut-side of clove of garlic. Slowly add French Dressing to real mayonnaise, beating constantly. Makes 1 cup mayonnaise.

Caramel Strawberry Shortcake.

It's a rich, hot, well buttered biscuit crust, put together with Caramel mixture and baked. Heap strawberries and whipped cream on top. It's different. The family will come a-running when they find out about it.

2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder (quick action)
Milk or water (approximately ⅔ cup)
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup butter
1 egg

Sift dry ingredients. Cut butter in with fork. Beat egg slightly in measuring cup, add liquid to fill ¾ full. Add enough liquid to make soft dough. Pat into two rounds on lightly floured board. Put one round in buttered pie tin and spread with caramel mixture made by creaming together ⅔ cup light brown sugar, 3 tablespoons butter and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Place the other round on top and bake in a hot oven (250 degrees F.) 20-25 minutes. Do not separate layers. Heap strawberries on top and serve with or without whipped cream.

. . . FOODS New Ideas for an Old Art RECIPES . . .

Crumb Collector

Fasten a large paper sack over the end of the food grinder when grinding bread or crackers. The sack will catch all of the crumbs.

Re-Heat Cereal

Put cereal that is to be reheated in a double boiler. Cover it with a thin layer of water and then put one lid on. Cook about fifteen minutes, stirring thoroughly at least three times. Use a slotted spoon or fork to break up lumps.

Charcoal Cooking

Charcoal used for outdoor cooking should be red hot. To broil meats over it, place the grill about four inches above the charcoal. Put the meat on it, quickly searing on both sides to prevent losing the juice. Then turn and cook the meat until it is done.

Soggy Crust

If the crust of your custard pie tends to become soggy try this: Lightly beat one egg white and carefully spread it over the crust. Bake the crust for five minutes in a moderate oven. Add the filling and bake the pie in the usual manner.

Luncheon Pancake

Add half a cup of leftover corn to your regular pancake batter recipe. When the pancakes are baked top them with a savory cream, tomato or cheese sauce.

Adjust Lights

Be sure that the pilot light and burners on your stove are adjusted properly. Doing so will save a great deal of fuel.

Tea Tidbit

Sprinkle chopped, candied ginger over thin biscuit dough. Then spread the combination with soft butter. Cut into strips a fourth of an inch wide and two inches long. Bake quickly. Serve hot.

Carrots

Mix grated or chopped carrots into apple and other fruit salads. They will add a delicious crunchiness.

Time-Saver

Hard-cook six eggs. Remove and mash the yolks. Then add one-third of a cup of chopped, cooked ham, a little minced parsley, onion and celery. Stuff the mixture into the whites and arrange them in a shallow, buttered dish. Cover with left-over gravy or tomato sauce. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven.

Luncheon Dish

Novel Canape

Cover caviar stuffed olives with cream cheese. Insert wooden picks and stick the other ends of the picks into a red apple.

Butter Balls

Rinse butter paddles in boiling water, then in cold water and place them in a bowl of cold water—before you start to make butter balls. Cut butter into pieces an inch square and about a third of an inch thick. Chill the squares in water. Put one patty of butter on a paddle. Shape it by rolling it with the other paddle. Chill until serving time.

To make castor oil palatable, mix it with orange juice, beat them together with a fork, then have the patient drink it quickly.

Food Fashions—

Good Cook Has a Way With Flavors

This is the first of a series of articles on "Food Fashions" which will appear on the News-Journal's weekly food pages. It is written by Miss Ruth Chambers, who will conduct the News-Journal cooking school next week. Miss Chambers, representing the National Live Stock and Meat board, is a recognized authority on food preparation. Watch for her "Food Fashion" articles.

By RUTH CHAMBERS

It's a way she has with flavors, little tricks in serving, subtle combinations of foods, a deft balancing of her menus, any and all of these things, which go to make the good cook. Sometimes we say she has a knack or that she is a born cook. This is true to the extent that one must begin with a real interest in food and a natural liking for good things, but beyond that there's nothing in this pleasant "knack" which may not be acquired by anyone who will watch and learn

Don't think that these little things are not important! They make all the difference, sometimes, between excellent meals and those which are just ordinary, between tempting foods and drab fare

Right Ways Important.

There are important small things in the matter of food preparation as well as serving Among these are the right temperatures for cooking and the length of time. Don't think that it really doesn't matter if your oven is too hot for your roast The difference between a juicy, tender piece of meat and a hard, dry, flavorless roast may lie in that difference in oven temperature.

The wron combination even of the best foods results in a poor dinner. If the main course is hearty don't serve salad piled high with cream and rich dessert.

Doubtless you give some thought to the blend of flavors, but do you think of the use which may be made of color in adding to the appetizing appearance of the food you serve? We are all becoming color-conscious, but long before we talked much about it, we still "ate with our eyes," and exclaimed, "That looks good enough to eat"

Avoid Monotony.

Sometimes it's just monotony which makes meals unappetizing. The best dinner you ever ate, if repeated every day for a week, would lose most of its appeal. Variety seems to be a necessity, if we are to relish our food.

A different way of serving, a new combination, an added flavor, may make familiar fare take on new charm. Isn't that one reason you enjoy a meal in a restaurant or at a friend's hom occasionally? The same kind of food seems to taste different

To get this variety into your own meals isn't so difficult. The changing seasons in themselves are a help Make use of fresh vegetables and fruits in season to add new flavor and color to the main dishes.

These new ways and new dishes need not mean any increase in the food budget Especially in the meat course it is possible to get variety with economy by using different cuts of meat. If you've been serving only a few cuts, do a little exploring in the market next time you go shopping

New Trick In Serving Old Meat Favorite

Short ribs of beef have long been a popular dish, usually served with browned potatoes. This short rib crown is a new idea. It is made of two sections of plate with the ends sewed together. A bread dressing fills the center.

Short Rib Crown.

2 sections plate, 3 inches wide
4 cups dry bread crumbs
1 cup diced celery
1 onion, finely diced or grated
2 eggs, slightly beaten
Salt and pepper.

Have two sections of plate cut 3 inches wide and as many ribs long as there are persons to be served. Four to six ribs in each section make a crown of nice size. Sew the ends together and place on a trivet in a covered kettle. Make a dressing of the other ingredients Soak bread crumbs in water Squeeze out, add the other ingredients and mix thoroughly Pile into center of rib crown. Place in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) uncovered, for one hour. Then add 1½ cups water, cover tightly and allow to coook one and a half hours longer, two and a half hours in all

Spring Tricks

Combine fresh strawberries and pineapple and serve them as the first or last course of the springtime meal. Add fresh, cooked mushrooms to corn used in making a souffle.

Health Salad

Roll one-inch balls of cottage cheese in nuts Fit the balls into halves of apricots. Surround with watercress Top with fresh strawberries Add French dressing.

Kitchen Hints

Eggs contain minerals, tissue-binding substances and vitamins. Consequently, it's a good plan to serve at least one egg a day to children. They may be creamed, poached baked, made into omelets or mixed with creamed foods They also may be made into custards or other simple puddings.

Washing machine hints: Always turn off the machine if you are suddenly called away The average tubful of clothing requires six minutes for ordinary washing—and ten minutes for badly soiled articles, such as overalls Change the water twice in laundering soiled articles such as rugs and play suits. Never overcrowd the washing machine, since the garments in it may be torn.

Medicine dont's. Don't increase the dose of medicine prescribed by the doctor. Don't take medicine in the dark. Don't use medicines that have stood on your shelves a long time. Don't forget to read the label carefully. Don't neglect to shake the bottle well.

Cover the tops of fruit tarts or open pies with melted currant, plum, grape or apple jelly. Then bake them for five minutes in a moderate oven. This gives them a pleasing glaze. Melt the jelly by heating it several minutes in a double boiler

Add a tablespoon each of prepared horseradish and mustard to half a cup of whipped cream. Serve with ham, veal or pork.

Never remove the hulls before washing strawberries. Put the berries in a colander and rinse them under slow-running cold water Then remove the hulls.

Fresh rhubarb needs little water when it is cooked as a sauce and none when it is used in pie or as a tart filling.

Pour a little sherry over fresh or canned fruits served as an appetizer or dessert.

Dissolve Epsom salts in very cold water to which one teaspoon of lemon juice has been added.

Tip For Bakers

Be careful not to fill baking dishes too full. Escalloped foods, rice puddings and fondues need about two inches of rising space. Foods made with baking powder, soda, cream of tartar or egg whites require at least three inches.

LOSES PERMIT

Liquor License of Woman In Workhouse Revoked.

The state board of liquor control today had revoked the liquor permit of Mrs. Angeline Nezrick, for the Carioca tavern, 78 Wayne street. Mrs. Nezrick is serving a 90-day sentence in the Toledo workhouse for permitting minors in her establishment.

Action of the state liquor body came nearly a year after Mrs. Nezrick was convicted in Richland county probate court and sentenced by Judge C. J. Anderson last May.

Committed to the workhouse more than two months ago after her case had been carried to the state supreme court, she is nearing the end of her term. The state court upheld Judge Anderson's sentence after the defense counsel argued that the tavern was a restaurant and not a saloon or "dram shop."

The tavern has been operated by relatives of Mrs. Nezrick since she was committed to the workhouse.

U. S. ENGINEERS PUSH ON WITH FLOOD CONTROL

Fights Flare But They Keep on Working Toward Distant Ideal for Ohio Valley.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two stories describing the program, problems, and principles of the U. S. Army Engineers in their work on flood control in the Ohio valey. The Second will follow tomorrow).

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — While controversy rages over various flood control proposals for the Ohio valley, army engineers sight tight, develop plans, make studies, and work toward an admittedly distant ideal.

"We'll not see any really complete flood control development for the Ohio river during the present term of officers now on duty," said Major H. H. Pohl, military assistant to the Ohio river division engineer. "But at some future date, depending on the amount of money appropriated each year, we'll have it. All we can do now is work ahead and do our best with the money available."

The engineers, who take advantage of every flood to add to their store of knowledge, are little concerned about disputes.

"We know what we regard as the best methods," Paul Pohl declared, "and we develop our program on that basis."

There are several approaches to flood control in the Ohio valley, but the best minds advocating each realize that no one is more than a partial solution. .

Not Only Solution.

Some students place faith in reservoirs in the tributaries, believing that with the tributaries under control, disastrous runouts into the main stream will be prevented. But reservoirs are not the whole answer.

Tributary reservoirs, the engineers believe, are of value mainly in their home grounds. The farther from a reservoir, the less a city is protected because rain falls below a dam as well as above.

Further, because they must back up water, property must be condemned behind them. And near the main stream such property usually is available. Thus, the reservoir sites may have to be chosen far upstream in marginal land.

Finally, the engineers believe that at best economically feasible tributary reservoirs would cut crests on the Ohio river but a few feet.

"Really effective reservoirs for a complete solution of the problem," Major Pohl said, "would be prohibitive in cost."

Other authorities urge reforestation (which is outside the engineer department's scope), recalling the high school physics class demonstration of water flowing slowly down a moss-covered incline and rapidly down a bare one. But reforestation is not the whole answer. Under certain conditions good forest cover checks the runoff materially by increasing the permeability of the soil. But if the ground is frozen, the hindering value is greatly reduced.

"Reforestation," Major Pohl said, "Is an uncertain factor. It undoubtedly has value, but just how much we don't know and we can't count on it."

There is a third line of attack of floods-floodwalls and levees. But although protecting cities and towns scattered from Pittsburgh to Cairo are projected, floodwalls are not the whole answer. They are not control; they are protection. They reduced the crests not a tenth of an inch. They even tend—ever so slightly—to raise the crests by preventing the water from spreading over the protected area.
